State Campuses — Fires, A Tearful Peace

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fires, flag-desecration, destruction of draft cards and other disorders linked to anti-war demonstrators continued today to plague college communities in New York State.

But tearful peace reigned on some campuses, and more colleges canceled or considered canceling classes temporarily, partly in sympathy with students and partly from growing fear for the safety of students and faculty members.

Locally, non-violence continued to be the keynote of the New Paltz State University student protest today. Student strikers continued to occupy the administration building but classroom buildings were opened at noon Wednesday. Approximately 50 students are continuing a hunger strike started Tuesday.

The New Paltz strike committee announced it would coordinate a national campaign "for economic sanctions against Coca-Cola Inc., recording companies and the movie industry." A spokesman said New Paltz was designated national headquarters for the economic movement by strike centers at Brandeis University and Penn State.

The New Paltz strikers are in communication with other colleges in arranging participation in a non-violent march in Poughkeepsie Friday starting 2:30 p.m. and the mass march on Washington Saturday.

The Committee on Non-Violence at Bard College voted today to send a group of representatives headed by John Adair and Bruce Chilton to Poughkeepsie in an effort to insure a peaceful non-violent march there Friday. The Bard students will meet with Sheriff Lawrence M. Quinlan, as many members of the county government and leaders of the Student Mobilization Committee as possible, to try and bridge the existing communications gulf between the two groups. Attempts will be made to work out "some form of viable framework so that this Friday's planned march in Poughkeepsie will be a peaceful, non-violent one, in the spirit of the late Dr. Martin Luther King."

A Bard student spokesman said. Classes were canceled for this afternoon only at Ulster County Community College for a convocation which began at noon.

A touching scene occurred in a Buffalo court, amid troubles elsewhere, when a judge of Polish ancestry heard the charge Wednesday against a university student accused of desecrating the American flag. City Court Judge Michael E. Zimmer sorrowfully commented that "when my parents came to this country, they got down on their knees and kissed the ground." The defendant, who pleaded innocent, faces a jury trial.

Early today, firebombs were tossed into ROTC facilities at Clark Gymnasium at the State University at Buffalo, after a second night of violence in which police used tear gas to turn back approximately 40 students, some of whom had thrown rocks and bottles. The ROTC fire, extinguished quickly, did little damage. About 40 persons had been arrested in this week's disorders in Buffalo.

Other colleges hit today or late Wednesday by fires included Fordham University in New York City, the State University at Albany, and Brockport State.

Mingled with the violence were memorial observances for antiwar students shot during a demonstration Monday at Kent State, Ohio.

The fire this morning at Fordham heavily damaged the student center, and followed protest demonstrations by tens of thousands striking students in the metropolitan area.

Fleet Carriers Maneuvering in Gulf of Tonkin

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Navy boats are planning an assault up the Mekong River to help open a 60-mile stretch of the waterway to the Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh, official sources said today. They reported the operation will begin Friday.

If the operation materializes, the Navy boats will be in for some sharp fighting. North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces are dotted along most of the waterway and control the ferry crossing at Neak Luong, 37 miles southwest of Phnom Penh.

President Nixon has said he would not send American forces beyond 21.7 miles into Cambodia without seeking congressional approval.

The operation would take half of the 500 Americans involved all the way to Phnom Penh. The sources said there will be 40 U.S. boats and 60 South Vietnamese craft.

The South Vietnamese part of the operation was first disclosed by the Foreign Ministry in an unprecedented public announcement of a future operation.

The U.S. Command had no immediate comment. There also were reports that the U.S. 7th Fleet aircraft carriers were maneuvering in the Gulf of Tonkin off North Vietnam but the intention was not clear.

In announcing the operation, the Foreign Ministry said air cover would be provided for the flotilla, but it did not make clear whether these would be U.S. or South Vietnamese aircraft, or both.

In a related development, it was learned that the government is considering an amphibious assault at the big port of Kompong Som—formerly Sihanoukville—and the Cambodian base of Ream, reported to be threatened by North Vietnamese troops only 20 miles away. Ream is 15 miles south-east of Kompong Som.

Presumably the South Vietnamese are seeking American support for this amphibious assault should they decide to carry it off.

Sources said the American part of the task force in the Phnom Penh operation on the Mekong River will include 38 gunboats armed with .50-caliber machine guns and two 350-foot long landing ships to be used as command posts.

The landing ships also will help carry back any of the 200,000 Vietnamese living in Phnom Penh who want to return to their homeland.

The 60 South Vietnamese navy gunboats will have mixed American and Vietnamese crews in-formants said. They added that some of the American boats will go all the way up the river, the others only half way.

The Foreign Ministry said the flotilla also will be protected by South Vietnamese troops, presumably riding in attack boats along with their U.S. infantry advisors.

Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops have seized control of all the villages along the Mekong from the border north to the Neak Luong ferry crossing, 37 miles southeast of Phnom Penh. The Cambodian army is reported to have moved about 2,000 troops into position 10 miles north of Neak Luong, but there was no indication when an attack might be made.

After Their Kent State Report to the President

President Nixon, after meeting privately at the White House with six Kent State University students on Wednesday, called for a complete report on the tragic shooting incident in which four students died this week. Two of the six students who met with the Chief Executive are shown later at a news conference with Rep. J. William Stanton, R-Ohio, right. They are Donald Grant, of Ridgewood, N. J. (left), and Richard Cutler, Kent, Ohio. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

City School Budget Higher

By WALTER S. CLARK

KINGSTON — A tentative budget for the Kingston School District Consolidated school year 1970-71 adopted Wednesday night by the Board of Education totals $15,033,712, an increase of $1,251,162 over the current budget of $13,782,550.

Despite the budget rise the estimated tax levy for 1970-71 totaling $6,673,710 shows a drop of $72,337 below the 1969-70 levy of $6,746,047.

Officials noted that the tax rate for the next year has not been computed.

The board has scheduled a public hearing for Wednesday, June 17 at 8 p.m. in the auditorium of George Washington School, at which time taxpayers will have an opportunity to question any or all items listed in the 53-page budget.

After that hearing the board will meet again for final adoption of the budget.

The largest item in next year's budget is for regular day school instruction, a total of $8,882,007 compared with the 1969-70 total of $7,895,189.

School officials noted in a statement that the instruction item is understandably the largest expenditure in any school budget, since it deals with the major function of the schools—the instructional program. The total largest item in the budget totaling $2,095,429 is listed as undistributed expenses, which include the cost of the district's share of contributions to employee retirement systems, social security and health insurance. Premiums for public liability and workmen's compensation insurance also are budgeted in that item.

Estimated receipts for the next school year total $8,476,002, an increase of $1,324,999 over the 1969-70 receipts that totaled $7,151,003.

Other items in the tentative budget are: (the first figure is for 1969-70 and the second for 1970-71).

Kingston School District Consolidated teachers rejected a new salary offer, attended the monthly meeting of the school board and voted to resume picketing of all schools on Friday before classes. Story and photo on Page 4.

Central administration—$236,450; $264,831; instruction, special school — $85,128-$94,450; transportation—$736,586-$739,016.

Other items in the same order: Operation and maintenance of plant — $972,507-$1,058,585; debt service — $1,849,736-$1,780,304; inter-fund transfers — $10,000-$7,500. An appropriation for Kingston City Library is increased from $14,500 to $16,000.

Board members noted that they serve without pay and the appropriation listed in the budget for Board of Education totaling $111,590 has to do with expenses of the board, and includes the cost of school elections, legal and auditing services, the annual school census and salaries and related expenditures incidental to the functions of the district clerk and treasurer.

In other business last night the board granted sabbatical leaves for 1970-71 to Richard J. Davis, Joseph Deschenes, Keith J. Kempton, Miss Helen M. Lowe, Mrs. Carolyn M. Nagy and Leonard Zimet. The leaves were granted with the understanding that those receiving them will return to their teaching positions in the Kingston School System for the school year 1971-72.

Richard C. Schleiter, an administrator, also was granted sabbatical leave under the same conditions.

The board also voted to sell the old Connelly schoolhouse on Gilead Street in that community to the Berg Sheet Metal Products, the highest bidder, for $2,550. Five other bids were considered.

An official canvass of the school district election voting showed the following results: Charles E. Raible 1,422, Mrs. Marianne D. Darrow 701, John R. Warren 637, Ellsworth L. Johnson 621, Joan R. Langton 440 and Robert L. Jones 216. Raible and Mrs. Darrow were declared elected and both were present at last night's meeting where they were welcomed by other district officials.

The board also authorized Louis Cordone, administrative assistant to the superintendent of Board of Cooperative Educational Services of Ulster County to join other schools in the county in a cooperative bread bid. Bids will be opened for the Kingston school district at 10 a. m. Friday.

In Saugerties.... Rejections

By ALBERT J. CAWEIN

SAUGERTIES — Saugerties Central School District voters decisively defeated the proposed $5.2 million budget and rejected the lone member of the board seeking reelection in Wednesday's balloting.

The budget, which would have raised the school tax rate by $15.50 per $1,000 of assessed valuation, was voted down 1,429 to 621. Last year when 1,655 voted on the school budget, it was announced that it was the largest budget vote in Saugerties history. The 2,050 that voted last night eclipsed it.

Elected to the school board was Thomas J. Macarille of Mt. Marion, who was unopposed and polled 1,262 votes. There were three write-ins for Mrs. Velma Wright, who previously ran for a board position.

Philip Meade of Blue Mountain won 1,109 to 719 over incumbent William Poythress of Simmons Park. Jack O'Rourke of Saugerties Village won 1,136 to 810 polled by Philip Fox of Pine Grove. They ran for the seat held by Mrs. Ann Karashay, who did not seek reelection. Macarille won the seat of Henry Breitenbach, who also did not run.

Robert Herb, board president said members of the board last night informally agreed to discuss the next action to be taken in regard to the budget at the May 18 meeting. The next vote on a budget cannot be held any earlier than the first week in June, he noted.

The board has three alternatives: resubmit the same budget, present a budget with cuts, the same as last year or adopt a contingency or austerity budget.

The board president, on questioning, revealed that Superintendent Dexter O. Arnold would not be available for comment today as he was attending a meeting upstate.

The proposed $5,220,281.01 budget exceeds the current school year budget by $716,037.51 and would have resulted in a new tax rate of $134.28 per thousand. The current tax rate is $118.78.

Estimated revenues including state aid of $3,328,081.21

BOCES aid $88,464; textbook aid $24,688.56; fund balance $135,127.31 and time deposit interest $30,000 leaves $1,608,919.93 to be raised by taxation.

Results of other area school board elections and voting on budgets for the 1970-71 school year are on Page 2.

The school district's estimated assessed valuation including a portion of the Towns of Ulster and Woodstock totals $11,981,090.

Last year the budget was defeated June 10 by a vote of 366 to 339. The school board reduced the budget by $71,104 and this revised budget was adopted by a 69-vote margin in a 862-793 tally.

The board could submit the same budget figure again, but Herb indicated the board would decide this if it were petitioned to do so by a large segment of district voters thereby giving some indication that it would be adopted by additional support.

Another alternative is to review the figures again and come up with some cuts that would lower the figure to make it more acceptable to the taxpayers.

The third alternative would be for the board to adopt a contingency or austerity budget. This would mandate the cutting of the adult education program, school lunch program, cutback of bus transportation to the legal state limits 2 miles for elementary and three miles for secondary students. Elementary students are now bused to within 1½ miles of the school.

Dr. Arnold, who presented the budget at the Tuesday night hearing, outlined certain alternatives in case of rejection. In addition to the above items, he noted that textbooks for kindergarten through sixth grade could be cut and this would require parents of these students to purchase the books needed. He also noted that athletics, football, baseball, basketball and others would be eliminated. There would also be cuts in service to municipalities which includes the use of school buildings for special functions, meetings, concerts and other activities, he said.

At the annual meeting Tuesday a resolution was adopted that would elect members to the Board of Education at large rather than for specific vacancies. The size of the board (nine) would remain the same. The three candidates polling the largest number of votes would be elected. Frank Antalek, state Jaycees president served as permanent chairman. Some of the other items questioned by taxpayers were the addition of 20 new teachers, 10 each for the elementary and secondary grades; the high cost of participation in the Board of Cooperative Education and Services (BOCES) budgeted for $152,170 and increases in bus transportation.

Ellenville Fire Fatal

ELLENVILLE — An 83-year-old woman perished early today when fire of undetermined origin swept through her trailer home at 1 Oak Ridge Road in this community.

The victim was identified as Winnie Cooper, who was partially blind. She lived alone.

Ulster County Coroner Arthur C. Chipp, who investigated the fatal fire at the scene with BCI Investigator Jack Ostmark, Police Lt. George Sheely, Sgt. Otis Brown and Patrolman Warren Hull, withheld a formal verdict. He said examination of the body indicated death was due to asphyxiation from heat and smoke inhalation.

It was shortly after 4 a.m. when police were notified of the fire by Bruce Evans, a neighbor. All fire units in charge of Deputy Chief Reuben Hull were dispatched to the scene of the blaze. On arrival police and firemen were told by neighbors that the woman was still in the burning building.

Chipp said Patrolman Hull subsequently entered the trailer and found the body on the floor of the bathroom. She was taken outside and removed to the Ulster County morgue for examination.

The cause of the blaze, which completely gutted the interior of the structure, was not determined.

Investigation is being continued by the BCI agents and local police officials. Chipp said Mrs. Cooper was born April 19, 1887, in Wyatt, N. C., a daughter of the late James and Manny Smith. She was the wife of the late Silas Cooper. Mrs. Cooper had lived in this area since 1960.

A Blast, Plea for President

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration attacks on young dissenters have been denounced as "inflammatory rhetoric" by the President's own youth advisor and gently criticized by a Cabinet member.

Within hours Tuesday, a letter to the President from Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel suggesting the administration has shown a lack of concern for young people was made public and Nixon appointee Anthony J. Moffett resigned as director of the Office of Students and Youth.

Hickel, who said he had composed the letter for Nixon's eyes only, wrote that administration policies appear "to lack concern for the attitude of a great mass of Americans—our young people."

He politely suggested that Vice President Spiro T. Agnew be muzzled on the subject of student dissent.

"A continued attack on the young—not in their attitudes so much as their motives—can serve little purpose other than further to cement those attitudes to a solidity impossible to penetrate with reason," Hickel wrote.

Moffett, whose rumored resignation became official today with a strongly worded statement on the administration's attitudes toward youth, was less diplomatic.

Nixon, Moffett said in a statement, "has shown that he does not understand young people, nor does he wish to communicate with them."

He decried the President's characterization of rioting students as "bums" and his statement that the death of four Kent State University students by National Guard bullets should "remind us once again that when dissent turns to violence it invites tragedy."

"A tone has been set by this administration that has tended to increase polarization," Moffett said in an interview Wednesday night. "The inflammatory rhetoric in the air by administration officials did not help the situation there (Kent State)."

Hickel pleaded with Nixon to solicit the views of individual cabinet members on the current campus crisis and suggested consultations with college officials.

Although Nixon earlier had declined to meet with 37 college and university presidents on the campus response to U.S. military action in Cambodia, the White House confirmed that the heads of nine campuses conferred in Washington Wednesday night with the President.

Nixon spent nearly an hour Wednesday afternoon with six Kent State students, during which, they said to reporters, they told the President there is a lack of communication between the administration and students.

The President reportedly promised them a full investigation of the shooting deaths at Kent State.

Hickel's assertion the administration cannot afford to alienate the nation's youth was predictably well received among antiwar activists, but they expressed skepticism Nixon would heed his advice.

Three Elected in Rondout; Budget Approved

By NANCY SULLIVAN

KEYSERIKE
In an unopposed contest for Rondout Valley Central School Board, Mrs. Eleanor Black of Kerhonkson was reelected to that post for a three-year term at Wednesday night's election. Also elected to the Board of Education were Mrs. Clara Margaret Booth and Mrs. Ann

Coler. Opposing Mrs. Booth were Sam Cohen and William H. Sass and Mrs. Coler defeated Arthur E. Sprague and R. Douglas Taylor. The budget, totaling $4,592,987.11, representing an increase of $470,368.11 over the 1969-70 budget, was passed by a vote of 779 to 608. The two propositions placed on the ballot it were defeated. One proposition called for the purchase of two 12-passenger vehicles for a sum not exceeding $5,300 each and was defeated by a vote of 694 to 651. The second proposition called for the purchase of two 67-passenger school buses for a sum not exceeding $15,000. A tally of the votes showed that 616 were in favor of the proposition and 717 were against

Mrs. Black, her husband Abraham, and their family have lived in the Rondout Valley for 20 years. The Blacks have three children, all graduates of Rondout Valley Central School. Mrs. Black attended City College of New York. She has presently completed her first three-year term on the Board of Education. Mrs. Black served as its vice-president in 1968-69 and as president in 1969-70. In the past, she has been involved in many community activities, including Cub Scouts, Girl Scouts and PTA. Mrs. Clara Margaret Booth has lived in this area for more than three decades. She was graduated from Oswego State Normal School and later earned her degree from Columbia University. She spent many years teaching on the elementary level, most recently in the Fallsburgh Central School District. Now retired from the teaching profession, Mrs. Booth is a licensed public accountant with an office in Pataukunk, where she resides with her husband, Paul M. Booth, a contractor and builder. Mrs. Ann Coler was born and educated in England. She came to America 20 years ago and became a citizen 14 years ago. She is married to William Coler, an engineer with IBM, and lives in Stone Ridge. The Colers have three children: one in Rondout Valley High School, one attends Rondout Valley Middle School and the third will enter school in September.

Mrs. Coler has been active in school organizations. She was president of the Hurley School Parents Club, and after moving into the Rondout Valley District, became chairman of the Marletown Parents group. She has been a delegate to the Rondout Valley School Council for four years and was president last year of the Middle School P.T.A. This year she is vice president of the Middle School Band Boosters and is Middle School representative to the Board of Education. Mrs. Coler was appointed by the board to the amount of state aid to the Rondout Valley Scholarship Fund Committee. She is also a 4H Leader.

200 students in 1969-70 and at least as many more expected in 1970-71 and higher costs in every area of the economy, the board feels that the increase in the budget is "reasonable and realistic, combining a sincere regard for economy with concern for the educational needs of the district." The major expense of the budget lies in the area of instructional salaries and related costs, where in most cases increases are mandated by law. Of the total budget of $4,592,987.11, the projected increase of state aid to the Rondout Valley Central School District in 1970-71 is $2,910,466.30, leaving the sum of $1,682,520.81 to be raised by local enrollment with a rise of over taxation.

Easy Sailing in Onteora District

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA

BOICEVILLE
By a substantial 2-1 margin, voters in the Onteora Central Schools district approved the proposed 1970-71 budget at the polls Wednesday. The $4,618,084 budget, representing a $405,845 increase over the 1969-70 figure, sailed through easily as 1,098 voters gave their approval, and only 569 dissented. The budget passed in all four voting places in the district by wide margins. Woodstock voted 320 to 225 in favor; West Hurley gave its approval 296-86; Olive Marletown brought in 228 votes for and only 135 against; and Shandaken-Lexington tallied 184 in favor, with 123 opposed. Onteora voters were also called upon in the annual balloting to fill two five-year expired terms on the Board of Education. Winning the races for trustee seats were Mrs. Edna L. Hoyt of Mt. Pleasant, and Donald A. Lawson Jr., Woodstock.

Mrs. Hoyt, who will succeed Ellen Eriksson on the board, was the victor in a top-heavy six-way race. A resident of the district for 25 years, active in many civic and charitable organizations, and a part-time postal clerk and office manager, she drew 615 votes from throughout the district. Her closest opponent was John Mover, a recent graduate of Onteora High School and the youngest candidate to ever make the run. Mover polled 493 votes. Others in the six-way contest were: Charles Mason, 150; William Creason, 174; Mrs. Margaret Trowbridge, 171; and Dr. James H. O'Connell, 65. Lawson took his victory in a two-way race. A resident of the district for more than eight years and a senior instructor for IBM, he defeated his opponent, Sam Mercer, by a vote of 856 to 600. He will assume the seat being vacated by Richard Langham. Passing by a 4-1 margin were two propositions listed on the ballot. Voters gave their overwhelming approval to reduce the term of service on the Board of Education from five to three years. The count showed 1,138 approving the change, only 241 opposed. Approval was also given to sell Hurley School No. 6, no longer used for classes since that district joined Onteora last year. The school will go on the auction block as a result of the voting, which showed 1,173 in favor and only 226 dissenting.

sprawling district, there was less lethargy than in more highly concentrated adjacent districts. The turnout at the polls in the district was lower than last year, but the percentage of victory for the budget was greater. Registration books show 3,887 eligible voters, of which only 1,667 entered the voting booths Wednesday. By comparison, 2,308 voted last year. Any analysis, however, would have to include the fact that with one-third less turnout of taxpayers and parents this year, the budget itself gained slightly more support. Sixty per cent of the voters supported last year's record high budget, while this year's budget, which established a record high, gained the approval of 62 per cent of those voting. It was the second year in a row that the Onteora budget met with smooth sledding after encountering trouble several times in the past. If the turnout was low by some standards, those who did trek to the polls showed their obvious support. In a widely scattered and

Rhinebeck...Overwhelming 'Yes'

RHINEBECK
A small turnout of voters passed the Rhinebeck Central School District's budget Wednesday evening by an overwhelming 334 to 83 margin. And a very tight two-way race for a Board of Education seat found James Kelly defeating Henry Muller 205 to 195.

Only 419 persons voted out of a possible more than 2,000 on the budget. Two votes were void. Only 414 voted on the board candidates. There were three write-ins, four blanks, and seven void in that close tally. Proposition number one, making each board seat not considered as separate specific offices as at present, was passed 312 to 90 with a total of 412 ballots cast. There were nine blank and one void. This proposition will become effective during the May, 1971 elections.

The budget was one of the least controversial in years for this district, as the real tax rate per thousand will increase only 15 cents, and no teachers contracts were negotiated due to a two-year contract stemming from last year. The figures show a total budget of $1,956,817.93, with the amount to be raised by tax $1,007,177.93. An increase of about $155.00. Kelly will take over the seat being vacated by Board President Robert W. Asher, who resigns after two five-year terms.

VanKeuren, 668; Cone, 635; Luis Aponte, 215; Lee Augustine, 488; Joseph Demskie, 131; Louis Greenstein, 435; George Murrill, 233. The library budget was approved, 606 to 260.

A Real Squeaker

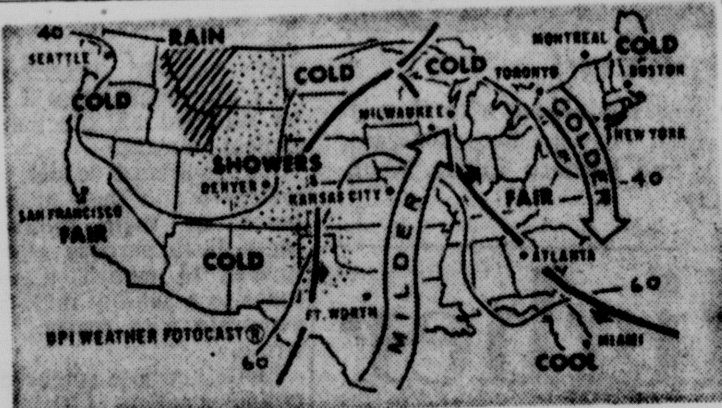

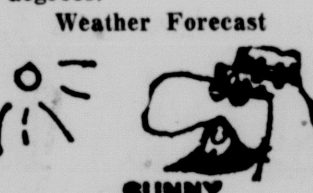

ELLENVILLE
Voters in Ellenville Central School District narrowly approved next year's school budget in Wednesday's voting. The budget passed, 556 to 508. Two incumbents—James Murray and Frederick VanKeuren—were reelected. James F. Cone was also elected. He replaces Richard Dole, who did not run. There were eight candidates in the race. Vote totals were Murray, 804;

VanKeuren, 668; Cone, 635; Luis Aponte, 215; Lee Augustine, 488; Joseph Demskie, 131; Louis Greenstein, 435; George Murrill, 233. The library budget was approved, 606 to 260.

Several Major Proposals on Agenda At Next Week's Legislature Meeting

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON

A number of major proposals will come before the Ulster County Legislature at its regular monthly meeting, Thursday, May 14. The board meets in special session tonight to act on bids received for the new infirmary.

On the agenda for next week are resolutions calling for:

- A line item budget from Ulster County Community College.
- A $400,000 bond issue for a county airport.
- A $275,000 bond issue for purchase of land for parking.
- The establishment of a non-salaried County Parking Agency.
- The establishment of a County Pollution Control Agency.
- An agreement between the County of Ulster and the City of Kingston Laboratory with regard to services rendered.

- A transfer of funds ($16,000) for a me-quito control survey.

- Authorization for the hiring of two additional case-workers and a grade supervisor for the Social Services Department.

- A comprehensive review of insurance programs for the county.

- Authorization for the release of funds for the Community Action Committee.

The request for the Community College to submit a line item budget this year, comes from County Legislator Brian R. White (R-Dist. 9) on behalf of the Community College Committee.

The committee maintains that it is important for the legislature to review the financial requests of its various departments and that it is becoming increasingly important to have a concise and easily interpreted data. It points out that the county in recent years has prepared a line item budget in reviewing requests of other departments "with the exception" of Ulster County Community College.

The $400,000 bond issue for the county airport has been filed by Legislator Eugene Noe, chairman of the Industrial Development and Publicity Committee.

The $275,000 bond issue for the purchase of land adjacent to the County Office Building for use as a county parking lot will be requested by Chairman of the Board Peter J. Savago, (R-Dist. 8), Majority Leader Douglas V. Dye, (R-Dist. 2) and Minority Leader Robert W. Mabie (D-Dist. 7).

A related parking resolution will be submitted by Legislator Lester C. Elmendorf (R-Dist. 2) who asks that a detailed study be undertaken by the buildings committee or any other appropriate committee of the Legislature to establish a non-salaried county parking agency comprised of interested residents of Ulster County to operate and maintain all county-owned parking areas.

Elmendorf points out that the county owns and maintains parking lots within the city and feels it is incumbent that they be operated and maintained in an efficient and businesslike manner. The resolution calling for a county and City Lab which County Pollution Control Agency will be presented by Legislator Orrie R. Riehl (D-City) who states that the manager of the lab has offered the following: medical consultative services to the three county coroners, services as authorized by the sheriff, commissioner of social services and other officers and agents of the county and certain examinations for the city and the Public Health missioner of health.

STUDENTS HONORED — Two students who serve on Kingston's school safety patrols were recently presented with distinguished service medals by Mayor Francis R. Koenig (R) in a ceremony at City Hall. The medals were awarded by the Automobile Club of New York for "exceptional alertness and attention to duty" in safe-guarding students at school crossings. Participating in the ceremony was Lewis B. Scott, secretary of the club, which sponsors and helps organize the school patrols. The event was part of a statewide observance of School Safety Week proclaimed from May 3-9 by Gov. Rockefeller. Winners were (L) Joseph Hanns, Linderman Avenue Extension, George Washington School and Philip Vertetis, 92 Florence Street, a St. Mary's School student. Also shown are (L-R rear) Police Chief Francis J. Fagan and Lewis Scott.

Red Hook Trailer Hearing: Opinions For and Against

By TIM SCHUSTER

RED HOOK

A full house of Red Hook residents turned out Wednesday evening at the Town Hall for the Zoning Board of Appeals first public hearing, regarding the establishment of a trailer park.

The park would be developed by Frank Trifaro on a 62-acre parcel of land bordering Rokeby and Middle Roads, and would contain 168 trailer sites.

Many of the residents were concerned with the effect the park would have on the value of their nearby homes, and others expressed opinions in favor of the project.

The proposed mobile home park had been in the works since last September, but the zoning law in the Town of Red Hook was passed this spring, necessitating a review before the board of appeals.

The Planning Board recommended to the Board of Appeals that the park not be accepted for several general reasons, including: confusion in the plans; lack of sanction of surrounding neighborhood; reduction of long range tax revenue; poor traffic conditions would result on Rokeby Road; waste disposal may not be suitable.

Attorney for Trifaro, James E. Coons of Poughkeepsie, rebutted these arguments, saying that all requirements of the zoning law and the County Board of Health had been met, and would be met if approved, including water, sewerage, plot size, roads and drainage.

Coons explained that Trifaro proposed to develop the land a section at a time because it was "economically feasible."

He said that trailer parks were a necessary form of housing, especially for elderly and young people without large fiscal resources.

He also said that he felt the Planning Board, in its suggestion, was trying to usurp the duties of the master plan. He said he felt that tax effects "have no place" in this type of hearing, but that Trifaro would become one of the largest taxpayers in the town if the plan were realized.

Several remarks by residents were: What about the balance of the land owned by Trifaro? If this is a permitted principal use, why must a public hearing be held? The school taxes will be unfairly affected by 168 trailers; the ecology of the area would be ruined.

John Colburn, former president of a national mobile home owners association, said he would advise potential trailer owners not to move to Red Hook because "I wouldn't want anyone living in such a hostile neighborhood."

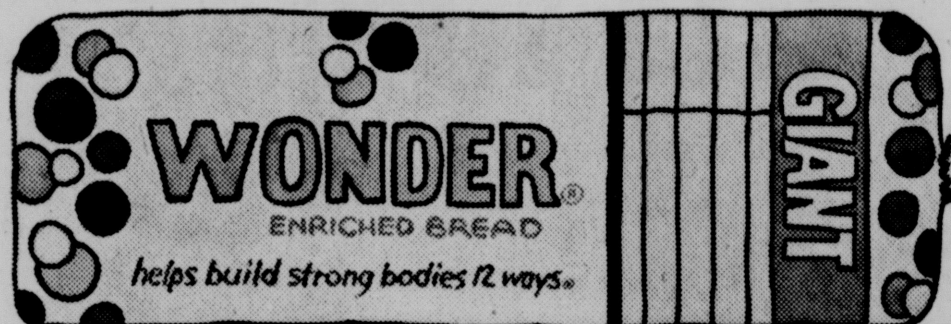

Coons brought out figures showing that the concentration of persons brought to the town because of the development would not be as great as possible by apartment buildings, also allowable by special permit. He said that one could have 620 apartment units on the same acreage, compared to 168 trailers averaging three persons per unit.

Chairman of the Zoning Board of Appeals Arthur Hand said that the decision of the board would be made sometime in the near future, and that Trifaro could ask for another hearing in the event that the decision goes against him.

City Teachers Reject New Salary Offer

TEACHERS FORM PICKET LINE

By WALTER S. CLARK.

KINGSTON — After overwhelming rejecting a new salary offer by the Board of Education, approximately 400 teachers of the Kingston School District Consolidated voted Wednesday night to resume picketing of all schools on Friday and to make a final attempt to reopen negotiations with the board.

The "honor picketing" will take place before the beginning of the morning session, and it is not intended to interrupt classes.

The decision to reject the new salary offer in which the district would pay full cost of the teachers' hospitalization insurance and increase by $500 the salary of teachers with 20 years' service in the district, came during one of two stormy sessions of the professional employees last night. The new offer would be in addition to the previous offer by the board of $500 across-the-board raise for all teachers.

A demonstration of teachers marked by picketing with placards in front of the George Washington School during the board meeting was the largest teachers' protest to date during the board-teacher dispute.

After early picketing, the teachers crowded into the school auditorium to attend the monthly meeting of the board.

Richard J. Davis, KTF president, in a statement told the district board, "we feel you have seriously failed in your obligations, both to the employees and to the tax-paying public." He went on to note the board's "constant theme" has been economy and he charged that the board has:

Planned expensive construction projects away from population centers, while ignoring overcrowding at KHS and MJM schools.

Planned to close an elementary school and use it for administrative offices while asking for increased class size in elementary schools.

Dispensed large sums of money in raises for administrative personnel, including a so-called "educational consultant" and "superintendent of buildings and grounds" who has since been released.

"Put the blame for your own ineptitude on the Taylor Law, which you know favors the Board of Education.

"Told half-truths and outright falsehoods about the grievance procedure and its costs to public.

"Used a statement of impasse in negotiations with the Federation as a vehicle for half-truths about the salary situation."

Concluding his statement, Davis charged, "all these actions represent a major betrayal of your trust as those elected to direct education in Kingston, and we ask that this board, collectively and individually, resign now."

The 400 plus teachers applauded loudly and marched from the auditorium.

A strike situation nearly developed when it was learned the Board "in retribution for Davis' statement" was considering cancelling his previously approved sabbatical leave. However the board approved the leave.

The teachers set next Wednesday at 4 p.m. for another meeting to decide future action on the impasse declared by the Board. After the second stormy meeting of the teachers last night, they filed from the school chanting "We're going out."

The noise temporarily held up the board meeting.

Disagreement in Rosendale On Sanitary Landfill Dumping

By NANCY SULLIVAN

ROSENDALE — A request for a fee to be charged to persons dumping loads of trees in Rosendale's sanitary landfill area caused a disagreement between the custodian of the area and Rosendale Town Supervisor Gerald DeFelice at Wednesday night's Town Board meeting.

The custodian told the board that he felt a fee of from $3 to $5 should be charged to any person dumping trees in the sanitary landfill area because of the increased dumping. DeFelice said that he would be opposed to any fee. He stated that most of the trees that are being dumped come from Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corp., and the county and State Highway Departments projects and the town wants to maintain the "good relationship" that they have with these agencies.

Packers, who carry in several loads of garbage a day, are charged an annual fee of $100 for the use of the dump. One citizen present at the meeting said that these packers should be charged by the load for each cubic yard that their truck carries. The resident felt that if this was done, they wouldn't be dumping as much garbage in Rosendale's sanitary landfill area.

Supervisor DeFelice was also opposed to the custodian's request for a telephone at the dumping site and also for a charge of 50 cents or $1 for a dumping permit. Presently, residents of Rosendale must obtain a dumping permit from the town clerk but there is no fee for this permit.

In a letter from Vida Cable, drawn up and sent to the Ulster County Legislature and a cable TV System in High Falls, one-half of which is in the Town of Rosendale. In 1967, of Rosendale is in favor of aiding such organizations whenever possible. He also stated that he would like to see this law changed. The board concurred with DeFelice's statement and a resolution will be made concerning this matter.

A request for curfew was made for teenagers in the town by a resident. The board stated that they would look into the matter and would request ordinances on curfews from other towns in the area.

Richard Chatham was appointed to the recreation committee at the meeting.

Congress OKs New Space Funds

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Shrugging off a blunt accusation of pork barreling, Congress has supported the first steps in a "new epoch" of U.S. manned space flight estimated to cost $14 billion during the 1970's.

The Senate Wednesday rejected 56 to 29 an amendment to eliminate $110 million from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's (NASA) 1971 budget.

The money would go for development of an orbiting space station with shuttle rocket ships. An earlier attempt to eliminate the same item narrowly was defeated in the House.

The Senate then passed 69 to 15 a $3.3 billion NASA budget including money for two more Apollo moon flights. The total was $40 million less than NASA got this year, $17 million less than requested by the Nixon administration and $285 million less than voted by the House. A conference committee must resolve differences between the House and Senate versions.

Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., called the space station and shuttle project "the best investment of public money the Congress has ever made," and Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine, said it would "contribute to every segment of society."

Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., said the space program's costs are "out of all proportion to its usefulness to a country in great distress."

In a tack rarely taken during Senate debate, Fulbright protested that "the reason the space program has such fanatical defenders" is that so many senators have space agency installations and contractors in their home states—the practice known as "pork barreling."

Fulbright did not single anyone out. Defenders of the space shuttle project included

Cape Kennedy is in Florida, and NASA announced April 30 it was awarding a $6 million contract to a West Palm Beach, Fla., firm, Pratt and Whitney Division of United Aircraft Corp., to develop a propulsion system for the space shuttle.

Propaganda Is Israeli Retort

By United Press International

Cairo said today Israel has rushed 10,000 troops and 360 tanks to the Suez Canal as reinforcements for soldiers already taking a heavy pounding from Egypt's cross-canal spring offensive.

Israeli warplanes bombed Egyptian guns along the 102-mile waterway during an artillery duel Wednesday night, hitting in waves at 6:50 p.m. and 7:40 p.m. Tel Aviv said they all returned safely.

Clashes were reported on two of Israel's other fronts during the night. Tel Aviv said three of its soldiers were killed and two wounded in the northern Golan Heights of Syria. A 17-year-old girl was reported killed in a rocket barrage from Lebanon.

The Egyptian report of Israeli rushing reinforcements to the canal front appeared in the semi-official newspaper Al-Ahram. It said, too, that Israel had called up part of its reserves.

"This is just more propaganda," an Israeli spokesman said in Tel Aviv. "I can officially deny it."

Goldberg or Morgy--Liberals to Pick

The Liberal party was expected to make a choice between Arthur J. Goldberg and Robert M. Morgenthau today.

Both are Democrats who want to run for governor and both have been wooing Liberal support. The Rev. Donald S. Harrington, chairman of the Liberal party, was designated as gubernatorial candidate weeks ago in what he admitted was a holding action.

Harrington and the leader of the Liberals, Alex Rose, had been expected to eventually endorse a Democrat. The third Democrat in the race, Howard Samuels, was given only an outside chance to get the endorsement.

Morgenthau was considered the early favorite of the Liberals, because his candidacy as a Democrat was first assumed to be at Rose's urging. However, in recent weeks, Morgenthau denied he had ever discussed his candidacy with Rose.

Goldberg, criticized by Liberals who doubted he was free of Democratic boss control, came into serious consideration when he wrote a letter to Harrington Tuesday. Goldberg said he would welcome Liberal party support and, if elected, would "run an independent administration."

Today is the last day that candidates for office can file nominating petitions with the secretary of state's office. Any political candidate who wishes to challenge a party-endorsed office-seeker must file petitions to get on the ballot.

In action among other candidates Wednesday:

— Governor Rockefeller refused to say whether he supported or opposed President Nixon's Cambodian policy when queried by newsmen in New York City. He did say the President "is doing what he feels is best for the country."

Rockefeller said he was sympathetic to the concern young persons feel about Cambodia and the death of college students in Ohio.

— Rep. Richard L. Ottinger, D-N.Y., a candidate for the Democratic nomination for U.S. Senate, introduced an amendment to the $20.2 billion military procurement authorization bill because of his "outrage at that permission from a federal district judge must be obtained before the National Guard is Ohio."

Council Skeptical on the Inflation

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (UPI)—Members of the elite Business Council have become somewhat skeptical of the Nixon administration's ability to stop inflation without causing a recession, a UPI poll showed today.

Treasury Boss Sees It Bleak, But Hopeful

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Treasury Secretary David M. Kennedy says the nation's economy "now represents a very black picture" but the Nixon administration's anti-inflation efforts will steady things by the end of this year.

Kennedy told a Senate Foreign Relations Committee hearing Wednesday the administration's fight against rising prices is "right on course" and there should be a distinct improvement by year's end.

Kennedy also said published estimates of a $6 billion to $7 billion budget deficit for the business year beginning July 1 are out of line. He said earlier administration predictions of a $1.3 billion surplus would not be "off more than a billion or two."

"Anyway," he said, "a deficit of $4 billion or $5 billion in a trillion dollar economy will not make or break the United States."

Only two of the 50 national business leaders who answered questions rated President Nixon's inflation-control effort "effective." More than three-quarters of the responses predicted either continued inflation, a recession, or both.

Five Cabinet officers plan to try to dispel the gloom and rekindle support for the administration during the council's semiannual meeting, which begins Friday at this fashionable spa in the Allegheny Mountains.

The 150-member council includes many of the nation's most powerful industrialists, corporation executives and bankers. Most members backed the President in the 1968 election and they generally expressed support for his policies in earlier UPI polls.

Members answered the questions with the understanding they would not be quoted by name.

Council members, overwhelmingly Republican, gave generally high marks to the administration's foreign policy. But they expressed doubt Nixon or anyone can do much to prevent a wave of strikes by government employees.

But in the latest sampling, conducted by mail, there was a definite lessening of enthusiasm.

To the question "How do you rate the Nixon administration's effort to control inflation?" 2 said "effective," 11 said "fair," 30 said "satisfactory," although one added caustically "just barely," and 3 penciled in responses that indicated a performance less than satisfactory but not quite failure.

Asked to forecast the economic future, 11 members predicted a return to stability, 17 predicted continued inflation, 9 predicted a recession and 8 predicted simultaneous inflation and recession with slowed business activity but soaring prices.

"With the present Congress permitting the labor unions to do as they please, and the President seeming to be unable to do anything about it, there is no way of controlling inflation," one industrialist said.

Ex-Prisoner Asks $15,000 For Work Performed in Jail

LOCKPORT, N.Y. (AP)—A man claims Niagara County owes him $15,000 for electrical work he did for nothing while a prisoner in the county jail.

Thomas E. Prince, 36, of Niagara Falls, filed the claim Wednesday with the county legislature, which referred it to the county attorney.

Prince, who described himself as a licensed electrician, said he rewired most of the jail during the 11 months he was an inmate there. He said he did so "at the behest of the Niagara County sheriff."

Prince was freed last month after serving a term involving a fraudulent check.

Undersheriff Anthony J. Villella said Prince had been scheduled to go to Attica Prison but asked to remain at the jail here "so he could work at his trade as a rehabilitation measure."

Wages, Purchasing Power

Unless there are companies that will resist high wage demands, the country is licked in the battle against inflation, according to Labor Secretary George P. Shultz. At the same time, he pointed to the plight of workers who on an average have had no increase in purchasing power for four years despite big pay increases.

Labor and management's dilemma was outlined by the Labor Secretary at the annual meeting of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce. Last fall, when Shultz made a similar appeal to business to stiffen their stance at the bargaining table in the face of outsized wage demands, there were angry mutterings from some labor leaders. But AFL-CIO President George Meany supported Shultz and the mutterings died down.

Labor is just "spinning its wheels," Shultz declared, so long as cost of living rises along with wage increases, and the country marks time in its fight on inflation. However, he put the responsibility for holding prices and wages wholly on business. Prices, yes, but when Shultz asked business to resist high wage demands, he did not ask labor to soften theirs. Without a similar demand on both labor and management, higher wages produce higher prices, and labor, as Shultz graphically said, merely spins its wheels.

Somebody will have to stop this continuing cycle. Shultz hinted at but did not go far enough with the jawboning of both labor and management that is needed to stop the spiral.

Mitchell's Crime War

Charles R. Rogovin, head of the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, the top Justice Department job involved in fighting crime, resigned effective June 1. A holdover from the Johnson administration, Rogovin, 39, is a hard-hitting anti-crime campaigner. He is leaving because of policy and personal differences.

Nonetheless, Rogovin gave Attorney General John N. Mitchell high praise for leading the greatest crackdown on organized crime in U.S. history. "I'll give this man credit," Rogovin said. "Mitchell has a high level of credibility in law enforcement and in the organized crime fight. There's a better coordinated system against crime now than ever before. We're not winning yet, but we're not losing as badly as we were."

Rogovin credits Mitchell with preaching state and local involvement as exemplified in the Justice Department's New York City "strike force," which formally integrated federal officials with state and local authorities to fight the Mafia. The strike force concept spread across the Hudson to New Jersey, where a big sweep caught politicians and gangsters in federal indictments.

It is unusual, and a tribute to both men, that a Democrat leaving the department praised Mitchell so highly.

Urban Crisis Long Past?

Hard to believe though it is, all the to-do about pollution and urban crisis is 70 years too late, according to Dr. Richard Wade, a Chicago University expert on urban affairs. The real urban crisis was at the turn of the century, he said in a speech at Chatham College, Pittsburgh.

Conditions at the beginning of the century in the average American city were cited by Dr. Wade to confirm his statement that things have been getting better and better through all the decades of the 1900s. It makes astounding reading. This is his list:

Housing—Unsanitary, congested, no hot water, toilets outside.

Health—Sixty per cent of babies died during their first year.

Pollution—Cities filled with smoke from factories and railroads. Drinking water often discolored.

Riots—Most involved labor and management. A strike meant that someone was bound to be killed.

Crime—Police did not patrol certain sections of cities. The St. Louis police manual, for example, specified that if officers had to go into a certain section it must be "two if by day, platoons if by night."

Actually, the United States is a pioneer in solving urban problems, Dr. Wade said. He cited Sarajevo, Yugoslavia, where the norm is for five to die of smog every day.

Two major problems remain to be solved, he thinks. One is open housing for blacks, in keeping with their spectacular gains in the last 25 years, when the middle class Negro increased from 8 to 30 per cent. For them the American dream is yet to be realized. The other is suburban-urban cooperation. Suburban communities must work with the city and both must recognize that their responsibilities overlap.

There has been great progress in the 1900s, but we still have our problems. They are different and just as grim. We are right in being concerned about them. The great to-do over urban affairs is needed to help make the quality of life today more bearable. But the protestors have no right to decry what they call our "total urban decay" and lack of improvement.

"So Call Me When the Alarm Goes Off!"

David Lawrence Says Dislike for War Seen as Reason for Youth Unrest

WASHINGTON — There are two ways to appraise the unprecedented unrest of the younger generation which is sweeping the country. One is to attribute it to base motives and denounce it as in every sense misguided or possibly even treasonable. The other is to examine sympathetically the cause of the strange epidemic that has struck many students and some members of the faculty of various universities and colleges. The contagion has also spread to groups in the middle-age brackets, too, which are discontented for a variety of reasons.

Basically, the primary trouble is a dislike of war. The youngsters who do not want to go to Vietnam have suddenly been seized with apprehension that a widened conflict has come and that they might be compelled to serve in a combat area. Congress itself has numerous politicians who cater to the anti-war voters.

The whole uprising is not at all due to any factor of poverty. Most of the students who are engaging in campus riots are sons or daughters of parents who can afford to send their children to college. As Vice President Agnew declared in a speech Monday night to the American Retail Federation:

"For the first time in history a great nation is threatened not by those who have nothing — but by those who have almost everything."

It was not surprising that the announcement of the military operation just undertaken in Cambodia should have promptly aroused again a spirit of rebellion in the colleges and a desire to promote "demonstrations" throughout the United States. Many parents are themselves sympathetic with such moves.

Vice President Agnew seems to think that a counterdebate can accomplish a great deal in rebuttal. He says:

"We have listened to these elitists laugh at honesty and thrift and hard work and prudence and logic and respect and self-denial. Why then are we surprised to discover we have traitors and thieves and perverts and irrational and illogical people in our midst?"

There is no greater problem confronting the American people than this. There must be an intellectual, philosophical counter-attack made against the cynics, the moral relativists, the creators of the "era of moroseness."

"In our colleges, in our pulpits, in our forums, we must once again hear the principles of western freedom defined, and defended, rationally, openly, proudly. The cynics have held the center stage of our intellectual life for too long. I believe there are in our nation a cadre of academicians and professionals whose intellectual credentials equal and surpass those of the smug purveyors of mockery and scorn—and that the 'traditions of civility' can be saved by their efforts."

"Let us have open public debate on the principles on which our nation and our civilization is built."

But when feeling on an issue becomes extreme, voices of reason have little appeal and passions flame to the point of violence. That is what has happened in many parts of America. When the police intervene, they are accused of being too "brutal." Yet on many campuses the authorities have been reluctant to maintain "law and order," and National Guardsmen have had to be called in at some universities and colleges.

There will not be an abandonment of violence and a change to peaceful methods of debate until large segments of the population exert their influence in each community. A responsibility particularly rests on the parents of those students who are prone to engage in gatherings that lead to violence and sometimes to tragic consequences.

The theory that organized rallies or "protests" affect public opinion is related to whether principles are argued intelligently or whether threats or rebellion are the sole form of expression. In the nation's capital, it is doubtful that any "demonstration" has had a real influence on Congress or the White House. A few hundred thousand letters or telegrams from different parts of the United States still count far more as an expression of "public opinion" and sometimes the results of polls have great impact, depending on the questions asked and the type of people in the areas surveyed.

Politicos Goof on Carswell

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
 NEA Washington Correspondent
 WASHINGTON (NEA) — In Florida, the St. Petersburg Times' countywide (Pinellas) poll giving Rep. William Cramer a 61 to 11 edge over G. Harold Carswell for the U.S. Senate in strongly Republican territory indicates a big botch by President Nixon's political operatives here.

Pinellas is, of course, Cramer's home base. But it holds a fifth of Florida's total GOP registration, and in actual voting tends to contribute more like a third of the total.

This poll, taken by telephone from something under 300 Republicans in Pinellas, is naturally only a first indicator. Yet Cramer's strength there can hardly be doubted. Moreover, reliable analysts think he is almost equally well fixed in the state's second, third and fourth place Republican strong points in Broward (Ft. Lauderdale), Dade (Miami) and Brevard (Cape Kennedy) counties.

Since the Florida primary is not until Sept. 8, Carswell, Nixon's defeated nominee for the U.S. Supreme Court, has a lot of time to draw in money, to get organized with the aid of his chief sponsors, Gov. Claude Kirk and Sen. Edward Gurney, and perhaps to build on the sympathy he won Southwide in the course of losing the court fight.

On the other hand, that sympathy might now be at its peak. And his entry into the race has infuriated many established GOP figures who see him as Kirk's prize lever in the governor's long feud with Cramer over political power in Florida.

No knowledgeable source has any doubt that Kirk and his agent, Robert Lee, his 1966 campaign manager, cooked up the arrangement to get Carswell into the fray because Kirk's earlier planted Cramer opponent, Lt. Gov. Ray Osborne, was not cutting it. A March St. Petersburg Times poll showed Cramer beating Osborne, 65 to 21.

Some key sources insist that Lee and others acting for Kirk decided early on to help the governor's renomination bid by stirring intraparty struggles and tossing in primary opponents for some of his formidable posse of enemies.

Not a bad tactic. Except that with the veteran, resourceful Cramer, it backfired. He induced Jack Eckerd, well-known druggist, to run against Kirk. And some polls have showed that race surprisingly close, with a big undecided segment and Kirk never hitting the 50 per cent mark.

Carswell's entry looked like a superb counterstroke, especially after Gurney, his court sponsor, was lured in on the theory that this was the way to vindicate the judge, elevate Gurney in Nixon's eyes, and damage, if not cut off, Cramer's solid pipeline to the White House.

To make the new scheme work, it was necessary for the Kirk forces, perhaps naively abetted by Gurney, to tell GOP National Chairman Rogers Morton and White House political aide Harry Dent that Cramer was in dire trouble from Osborne, that everything was fixed for the "martyred" Carswell to take over if Osborne and Cramer would pull out.

At this juncture, the President's operatives failed utterly. First, they had to know Nixon had given Cramer firm personal backing last July. Second, they should have known that any representations he was in primary trouble with Osborne were eyewash.

They had a clear responsibility to inform the callers from Florida that Nixon's commitment to Cramer was holding strong, that the tales they were telling did not square with earlier reports, that at the very least the White House would have to check them out on its own, that if Cramer's position had in any way deteriorated, the Kirk-Gurney people should be talking directly to the President. (He evidently was not contacted.)

Dent is reported to have said to some politicians that he was "mouse-trapped" by the Florida callers. Not likely, if he knew his facts. Obviously, both he and Morton said things to the callers which they could read as either open encouragement or "White House neutrality" and could convey that to Carswell, probably with flamboyant embellishment by Kirk.

Whatever Morton and Dent said and the guessing is Dent was the more openly encouraging, their hemming and hawing was fatal. Carswell announced the next day, helped down the garden path by men here who should know better.

Jack Anderson Says Hruska Complains Anderson Report on Him Incomplete

WASHINGTON — Senator Roman Hruska, R-Neb., the gray conservative eminence of the Senate, has been collecting $8,000 a year from a large insurance company at the same time that he has been championing the insurance industry on Capitol Hill. He also has other backdoor ties to insurance companies.

Among insurance men, indeed, Hruska is known as Old Reliable who can always be counted upon to fight for anything they want in Washington.

This column in the past has described his strange devotion to the insurance industry. Specifically, we reported recently that he tried to hush up an insurance scandal involving the Hardware Dealers Mutual Fire Insurance Company. This had to do with a complex scheme by 33 Hardware executives to reap a $10 million bonanza at the expense of the policyholders.

As evidence, we quoted at length from a secret transcript of a Senate Anti-Trust subcommittee meeting. Out of Hruska's own mouth, we showed how he had attempted to suppress the scandal.

The Senator raised an almighty howl on the Senate floor over the appearance of his secret statements in the public print. Then he complained that this column hadn't given "a faithful account" of his backroom maneuvering. We had ignored "the completeness of the record," he protested.

We have now dug deeper into Hruska's backroom activities, and we are happy to make the record more complete.

Hruska's old Omaha law firm, Garvey, Comstock, Nye, Crawford and Kirchner, lists Sentry Insurance Company among its clients. This is the parent company of Hardware Dealers Mutual, which Hruska defended in the secret hearing.

Another law client is Lumbermens Mutual Casualty Company, the flagship of the Kemper insurance group. At the private request of the Kemper group, Hruska intervened at the White House to kill a bill opposed by Kemper. The bill would protect policyholders in failing companies.

The law firm also handles the legal work in Nebraska for Equitable Life Insurance Company of Iowa, Illinois National Insurance Company, and Reserve Insurance Company.

The oldest member of the Omaha firm, Gerald Vasak, said the Senator's name has now been removed from the door and from stationery. Up until 1970, however, the firm proudly listed "Roman L. Hruska, now serving in United States Senate" in the Martindale-Hubbell legal index.

Since Hruska is running for re-election this year, he apparently has divorced himself from the law firm. But he could easily renew the relationship if the voters should turn him out of office.

Vasak said he knew of "no arrangement" under which Hruska is still drawing money away from the firm. The Senator's office declined to comment on his outside income.

This column has learned, however, that Hruska is still drawing $8,000 a year from at least one insurance company. This is the Western Bohemian Fraternal Association, which has $30 million in assets.

Charles Vyskocil, the company president, confirmed to this column that Hruska had been paid for his service as a vice president and attorney at the same time he was a U.S. Senator. He has now given up these posts and is collecting $8,000 solely for attending four meetings a year as "chairman of the board."

Hruska has made no mention of these conflicts when he has defended the insurance interests in both secret hearings and open sessions. He also hasn't brought up a $1,000 fee he was paid for speaking to an insurance group in November about the time he was working behind the scenes to help the entry and Kemper insurance combines.

Footnote: The Hardware executives' scheme to harvest the $10 million fell through after Sen. Phil Hart, D-Mich., vangled permission for a consultant to testify before the Wisconsin Insurance Department against the plan.

President Nixon's decision to escalate the fighting in Southeast Asia was intended as a much to establish "credibility" with Russia as to increase the pressure upon North Vietnam.

At his secret strategy sessions, the President stressed the word "credibility" in power politics. He pointed particularly to the growing Soviet involvement in the Middle East conflict. If the U.S. showed weakness against North Vietnam, he contended, the Kremlin might conclude that American warnings on the Middle East could be safely ignored.

The best insurance for peace, Nixon told aides, was to remain unflinching in a crisis. He cited President John F. Kennedy's stand during the Cuban missile crisis. By gearing up for a nuclear war and demonstrating that we were willing to fight, Kennedy forced the Kremlin to back down. Thereafter, the Soviets have carefully avoided another nuclear confrontation. Thus Kennedy's firmness, in Nixon's opinion, improved the climate for peace.

The President has told aides that he expected his will would also be put to test by the Soviets. By standing firm now, he said, he will gain "credibility" with the Kremlin and avoid trouble in the future.

Henry J. Taylor Says Recession Not Depression

An appalling number of scare-scare-scary stories warn us of a depression. Some even include reminders of the Great Depression. Yet nothing is less realistic for the public to fear than another Great Depression, as if enough falsities were not pitched at us already.

First, the 1929-32 depression was no more typical of America than was the Alaskan earthquake. It was totally unique in the entire economic experience of the United States, before or since — a phenomenon completely apart from our American pattern.

We are in a recession. This is undeniable. But a recession is as different from a depression as a bad cold is from cancer. We have had at least 26 recessions. The longest (1873-79) lasted 65 months. The shortest (1919-20) lasted only seven months. Consumer income and spending actually advanced during the brief 1960-61 recession. And this has grown to be not untypical.

There are always some parallels with anything. Some parallels certainly exist, and in several particulars we are even more vulnerable than in 1929. But the differences are as immense as Mt. Everest and the scare-scary stories emphasizing only the parallels stand within a short 9-iron shot from nowhere.

Our economic barometer's indexes in 1929 fell more than 50 per cent. And farming, turned ill, was decisive in the economy. But it was chiefly the overextension of credit to buy the upward-whizzing cannonballs in the stock market on a margin of only 10 per cent that represented the most blatant distortion.

The 1929 Dow-Jones industrial average reached a peak of 381. It hit a bottom of 41 in 1932, the deepest it dropped into the black pit. And the shoeing, credit-filled market was so incredibly inflated in the 1929 splurge that it took 25 years for stocks to come back to the 1929 level.

President Roosevelt served 12 years and one month. We abandoned gold convertibility. For the first time in the history of the United States, including the Civil War, it was illegal for our citizens to own gold. Mr. Roosevelt devalued the dollar. We began the inflation that has grown ever since. World War II came and went, with its own tremendous inflationary power. Then President Truman served seven years and nine months. Yet it was not until the Eisenhower Administration that stocks finally recovered to the 1929 level. At last the Dow topped 381 in 1954. And, astoundingly enough, even today the Dow is twice as high as it was in 1929 — a full 41 years ago.

The fundamental of our Great Depression which the scare-scary stories appear to ignore is that it was a world depression. That was the key to what happened to us.

Largely unnoted events often signal big change. The wars between Rome and Carthage, which lasted more than 100 years, began with a small quarrel over pirates in Sicily. The world depression was first signaled by the failure of the Credit Bank in Vienna. In a silence such as greeted that event you could have heard the electric clock in a Rolls. But the troubles spread from Austria to all of Central Europe. Gradually they engulfed all of Europe.

The United States has given more and asked less than any country in the history of the world. That is another reason why we can be proud we are Americans. We made immense, continuous, heroic and costly efforts to bail out one European country after another. It did not work. We received mostly criticism instead of thanks, especially regarding our tariffs, and this was the moment when cynics first called Uncle Sam "Uncle Sap" for our generosity.

Finally, Europe's depression created the world depression by extending across the Atlantic. America's resistance to it was high and we were the last of all the world's major countries to be affected.

President Roosevelt and other politicians completely rewrote history to their own advantage to avoid this point. Today's scare-scary stories are guilty of much the same omission of that point.

They reach so outrageously for Great Depression parallels and so glibly achieve these by ignoring the differences that it's hard to imagine anything more downright indecent (and dangerous) than to frighten people by them.

Questions for Ellenville Board Editor, The Freeman:

In last week's letter to the editors, we asked pointed questions of the Ellenville Board of Trustees in an attempt to get information to the public. These are questions being asked by the man in the street and we feel he deserves an answer. We would like to ask additional information:

Fact 1—The Mayor of Ellenville last week said in a press release that he felt Ellenville should build middle-income housing so that middle-income residents could move into them and the low-income people could move into the apartments and houses vacated by the middle-income residents.

Questions: A. Every survey done in Ellenville has shown the need for low-income housing; pictures have substantiated this need and people in great numbers have attended board meetings and hearings to cry out for housing for low and moderate income residents; why do the Mayor and his supporters continue to ignore this obvious need which they can fulfill at no cost to the Village and just a simple resolution from them?

Why does the Mayor support new housing for middle-income people and not for the poor working man? Does he feel that low-income people do not deserve new housing? Doesn't he also know that any apartments vacated by middle-income residents are priced too high for poor people? Imagine the chaos in reaction from landlords when rent payers move to new housing and they do not have a market for their vacant apartments? Is this the condition you want in Ellenville, Mayor Dowling? Tell the people the truth: "The only Federally funded program available today to construct low-income housing is the Turnkey Program. You may be sick of hearing it but it is the truth and you continue to ignore the fact. Why? Do you think that if you continue to reject this proposal that it will go away and people will stop asking for decent housing? You are the titular head of the Village Government and the people are looking to you for good leadership and direction. It is your responsibility to see that the needs of all citizens are tended to. You are ignoring a large segment of your constituents and using every dodge and evasion at your command to escape your duty to serve their needs. Why? Do you have something against working class-low income people?

Fact 2—Copies of an article written by someone, as yet unnamed and taken from a publication—as yet unnamed have been circulated around the Village of Ellenville in a very underhanded and sneaky manner. This article is anti-public housing and goes on to say that it is not successful and is not the answer to the housing problem.

Question — Why haven't the people responsible for this distribution made themselves known to the public and made their objections in an open and forthright manner? Why doesn't the Village Board investigate this and let the public know who these people are and why they are ashamed to come out and reaction from landlords when rent payers move to new housing and they do not have

of a question they are not well informed.

Fact 3—The town of Wawarsing is planning to build a new town barn on the present site of the old one.

Question—Were the people in the neighborhood surveyed to determine whether they were pleased or not about the barn being built in their backyard again? Why can't this facility be built outside a residential area or moved to another residential area where no one objects?

Fact 4 — The proposed 209 arterial highway has 2 or 3 possible alignments to carry it thru the Village of Ellenville.

Question — What are these 3 proposed routes? Will the people in the section affected have a chance to vote their feelings in the matter?

Aid to Catholic Schools Editor, The Freeman:

The N. Y. state legislature has recently passed a bill granting 28 million dollars of state aid—taxpayer's money—to the Roman Catholic private schools. This church claims that their schools are in financial difficulty, but for the last 100 years they have sought to make the government pay for them. Now this Republican-controlled administration, with open prodigious by the Roman Catholic religious administration, has any kind for any church. It is caused a law abortion far more evil, of a much more extensive and oppressive nature than the law which that church so recently sought to have retained as a state law. We now have the abortion of our Constitutionally guaranteed right of freedom of religion, the abortion of a law which protected us against taxation for a faith we do not profess.

It has taken only 191 years for the freedoms that were built in the New World's government to become eroded and meager. It is time held such promise to religiously oppressed people, and the irony of it is that a church, an alleged religion is deliberately and methodically accomplishing this erosion, using the government as an instrument, for reasons to become powerful and controlling.

State aid for the Roman Catholic private schools is an appeasement, offered by the legislators, in exchange for having to pass the repeal of the abominable abortion law. (This agreement was made in the back rooms of the Senatorial Chambers, to turn away from themselves reprisals which might otherwise have occurred).

But while protecting themselves, these legislators have wounded the taxpayers, who will now be subjected to greater unlawful taxation.

Our legislators have granted taxpayers' dollars to save the wounds of defeat, and working people, you will be taxed to death if you sit back and allow this to become a precedent. There are 251 different churches in this country and each may rightly claim a need for state aid. Thus it is evident that we must have laws which will prohibit government subsidies of any kind for any church. It is evident too that we must change the laws which protect the churches from taxes, they of least resistance and submit to induction. If it becomes so acceptable to actively reject powers are often gained through church collusion. No longer should the taxpayer, the hourly wage earner be burdened with their taxes, while struggling to keep a roof over his head, and enough food in his pantry from one week to the next, while trying to raise his children. Mark Twain said, "It could probably be shown by facts and figures that there is no distinctly native American criminal class except Congress." We feel compelled to enlarge the scope of this message to include in this category our state legislators, for indeed in order to perpetuate themselves in office they have stolen the constitutional rights of the citizens of this state of N. Y.

Students' Deaths Editor, The Freeman:

The deaths at Kent State prove that besides condemning political tactics in Communist countries our power structure is fully capable and willing to reproduce them. In the face of this, how can the government tell its young men that they are going to Vietnam to fight aggression and protect freedom. The colleges are full of political frustrated young men and women with plenty of energy to burn. This combination must not condemn them to death. These students must have an effective alternative. I feel that this should be a large scale refusal to serve in the military. Many young men take the oath of least resistance and submit to induction. If it becomes so acceptable to actively reject powers are often gained people will have a powerful and effective tool for influencing the national policy.

I hope that I am only one of many who have been shaken up by this incident enough to realize the hypocrisy of the American stand in Vietnam.

Sincerely yours,

'Red Rules for Revolution' Editor, The Freeman:

In May 1919 at Dusseldorf, Germany, the Allied Forces obtained a copy of some of the "Communist Rules for Revolution." Fifty-one years later the Reds are still following the rules. As you read the list, stop after each item and think about the present day situation where you live and around the Nation. I quote the Red Rules.

1. Corrupt the young. Get them away from religion. Get them interested in sex. Make them superficial. Destroy their ruggedness.
2. Get control of all means of publicity, thereby:
3. Get the peoples minds off their government by focusing their attention on athletics, sexy books, play and other trivialities.
4. Divide the people into hostile groups by constantly harping on controversial matters of no importance.
5. Destroy the people's faith

6. Always preach true democracy, but seize power fast and setting our Nation. Or is it just one big coincidence?
7. By encouraging government extravagance, destroy the credit, produce fear of inflation with rising prices and general discontent.
8. Promote unnecessary strikes in vital industries, encourage civil disorders and foster a lenient and soft attitude toward such disorders.
9. By spacious argument cause the breakdown of the old moral virtues honesty and sobriety.
10. Cause the registration of firearms on some pretext with a view to confiscate them and leaving the population helpless. This was quite a list, wasn't it? Now stop and think how many of these rules are being carried out in the nation today. I don't see how any thinking person can truthfully say the Communists do not have any part in the chaos that is upon the part of the government tempt and ridicule.

Marbletown Gets OK For On-Site Burning

MARBLETOWN State Transportation Department attended the meeting at Smith's request. The board had requested installation of a traffic light at the intersection of Cottickill Road and Rte. 209. Krom advised against it and suggested instead the widening of the entrance to Cottickill Road which leads to Ulster 9 p.m.

Approval of on-site burning at the Marbletown Sanitary landfill has been received from the New York State Air Pollution Control Board, according to announcement made Wednesday by Marbletown Supervisor Kenneth D. Smith at County Community College.

Approval of a request made by Garon Sheeley owner of Vita Cable TV for a franchise to install his cable system in the town was granted by the board. A public hearing on the request will be held in the near future at a date to be announced.

Smith reported the purchase of a Walters four-wheel drive truck with snow plow and double wing.

He also said he has received a petition from 15 residents of the Peak Road and Rte. 213 area asking for a street light to be installed at the intersection. The town board approved the request and the light is to be ordered this week.

Smith reported on the purchase of uniforms for the town's seven constables saying that six of the seven paid for half of the cost and one constable paid the entire cost of his uniform. The total cost to the town for all the uniforms is $153.51, the supervisor said.

The board approved the $850 cost for repair of the town building roof and Supervisor Smith declared the week of May 10 as VFW Poppy Week.

Discussion was held concerning the status of Knoll Road with one resident requesting it be abandoned by the town and another stating he would like the town to retain it. Smith explained that it is presently only partly in use, but that other residents along the road want it used and "you can't deny a man the use of his property."

The board agreed to raise the annual fee for use of the Marbletown Recreation Park from $10 to $15 for services which include swimming, picnicking, life saving lessons and ice skating.

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Consolidated Edison was authorized today to issue 3.3 million shares of $10 par value common stock to raise about $32 million for capital purposes and construction.

The Public Service Commission, which authorized the sale, said the giant utility company will offer the new securities initially to current stockholders. They can purchase one new share for each 12 shares now held.

After May 22, all unsold shares will be offered to the public.

The utility provides electric and gas service in New York City and Westchester County.

17 Killed in Manila Air Crash

MANILA (UPI)—A crippled, twin-engine charter plane at-tempting an emergency landing just after takeoff from Manila International Airport crashed today, killing 17 persons, nine of them children who lived in the hut where the plane crashed.

Officials and relatives said all four occupants of the plane and 13 children were killed. The children were from seven months to seven years old.

The airport control tower reported the plane's left engine was smoking and it was attempting an emergency land- ing when it crashed shortly after 8 a.m.

Seventeen persons from three families lived in the tiny hut, no more than 20 feet square, which stood alone in open farm land near a super highway 1.8 miles east of the airport.

Three of the residents were away and one woman in the hut survived the crash, but the others died.

The plane, a Piper Aztec chartered from Pacific Airways Corp., was en route to the Central Luzon resort city of Paguio.

Authorities identified the occupants of the plane as the pilot, Roberto de Luna, and passengers Jose Tuazon, Mrs. Peggy Lim and Andres Roxas. Roxas was chairman of the Rizal Commercial Bank Corp. and a son-in-law of Philippine Sen. Lorenzo Tanada.

Esopus Board Adopts New Dog Ordinance

PORT EWEN — Esopus Town Board following Wednesday night's public hearing adopted a dog ordinance and approved an amendment to its Local Law No. 1 on the dumping of wastes to increase the fine penalty to $1,000.

Supervisor George H. Freer said about 125 attended the 2 $\frac{1}{2}$ hour session. About 90 spoke on the dog ordinance and an unofficial poll showed that 95 per cent favored the ordinance. The board adopted it 3 to 1 with Justice John O. Beaver and Councilmen Lambert and Daniel Terpening in favor and Justice Charles Montafia, opposed.

The supervisor said several letters both pro and con were read and personal observations of residents were also reported at the hearing. Members of the sporting club and law enforcement agencies were represented and expressed their views.

Several favorable comments were made about the Town Board and Town Attorney Louis Klein's efforts in preparing the measure and the hearing.

A delegation of about 15 youngsters demonstrating at the hearing and carrying signs expressing both sides, provided a humorous interval.

The six-page ordinance to be effective 10 days after publication, requires that dog owners keep them under control or leashed wherever outdoors or penned or fenced in on the owner's property. The measure further calls for the appointment of a dog warden and designated all town constables to serve as special dog wardens as needed.

The penalty for dogs seized at large is a $5 redemption fee and other penalties ranging from $10 to $25 for a first offense.

Trooper Named To Black River District Post

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — State Police Maj. Edward M. Galvin of Albany, who has been the personal bodyguard for three New York governors, was named today as a member of the board of the Hudson River-Black River Regulating District.

Galvin, appointed by Gov. Rockefeller, succeeds the late Raymond I. Borst in the job. Borst was the former legislative correspondent for the Buffalo Evening News.

Galvin joined the State Police in 1936 and was assigned to the governor's security detail in 1945. He was a bodyguard for governors Thomas E. Dewey, Averell Harriman and Rockefeller.

The district regulates the water level and flow from the Stillwater and Old Forge-Sixth Lake reservoirs in the Black River watershed and Great Sacandaga Lake in the Hudson River watershed.

Break Looms In Non-Public Aid Dilemma

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — A significant breakthrough could be on the horizon as New York searches in the next year for a way of resolving its dilemma over state aid to non-public schools, especially those in ghetto areas.

The federal inquiry into what is dubbed the "voucher system" will be getting simultaneous attention from the State Commission on the Quality, Cost and Financing of Elementary and Secondary Education.

This commission, headed by Manly Fleischmann of Buffalo, has been charged by Gov. Rockefeller and the Board of Regents with making a major study and proposing long-range approaches to the problems of public and non-public education.

One of the seven mandates imposed on the Fleischmann Commission is to ascertain what is the proper role of the state regarding the financial needs of non-public schools.

Moreover, this mandate includes the phrase: "particularly those serving disadvantaged neighborhoods."

In other words, the governor and the regents have signaled a possibly radical departure from this year's $28-million program of state aid to non-public schools, which pegged assistance simply to the number of pupils enrolled in an eligible school, regardless of any special needs.

Fleischmann, in answer to a reporter's question, recently said one aspect of the commission study would be to consider, if more state aid is deemed to be a wise policy, whether it should be on an across-the-board basis or weighted toward particular areas.

He also said the voucher system would be given scrutiny by the panel members.

This system is considered by some educators to be a way of making it possible for ghetto children to break away from a public-inner-city school and attend, as more affluent youngsters can, a school of their parents' choosing.

The choice could be a church-related school.

In brief, here is how the system is envisioned:

A parent would be able to obtain an "educational voucher" in the amount of his child's share of the public-school budget and spend the voucher at another elementary or secondary school, either public or private.

Implicit in this, however, would be a restriction limiting the education "purchase" to non-religious subjects.

At present, the concept is basically in the study stage at the federal level, although a few other states are moving in this direction.

While many constitutional objections are inevitable, in addition to protests from public-school leaders, advocates of the voucher system argue that it would give the urban poor a freedom of choice and spur a fruitful competition between public and non-public schools that would improve the quality of education in both.

Whether or not New York State ever settles on this approach, it will have to at least take seriously some of the underlying premises concerning a dual school system in the cities.

Rockefeller has made it clear that he will not extend the state's commitment to non-public education until the Fleischmann Commission has had time to complete its study.

He has, however, said that the problems arising from discrimination and economic handicaps are putting a strain on urban school systems in particular and that "in the non-public schools all these problems are often accentuated by especially acute financial need."

Roman Catholic educators who are involved with inner-city education, meanwhile, are saying that they are committed to maintaining their presence in the ghettos, despite the stresses.

"You just can't lift these parishes out of the cities, one diocesan official maintains. "We're performing a clearly public function."

But the question remains whether any furtherance of state support for non-public schools will, as opponents maintain, provide a final inducement for many parents to abandon public education and thus create fewer bonds between children.

That is the dilemma for the Fleischmann Commission.

Kindergarten Tours Library

SAUGERTIES Library, Mrs. Mary Ormandy, greeted the children in observance of National Library Week, the kindergarten children's book section. Time classes of Mrs. Anna Mahony, Grant D. Morse School, recently visited the Saugerties Public and looking through the fine selection of material available. The story Farmer Small was read to the classes. Other added features of the field trip included a visit to the museum which is located in the lower level of the library. Here, the rocks, shells, fossils, butterflies and bugs were of great interest to the youngsters. The group then proceeded to walk to the Cellar Shop on Russell Street. Another treat was in store for the children as they viewed the numerous aquariums with all kinds of tropical fish, the gerbils, birds and iguanas.

Reading In-Service Classes Are Offered

SAUGERTIES classroom teachers with a better understanding of how the process of reading relates to the teaching of subject matter. In the first session, held April 21, Scoville emphasized that in order to teach subject matter effectively, classroom teachers must help their students learn how to read that particular subject matter, for the skills needed to read science are not entirely the same skills needed to read social studies. The remaining four sessions will be centered around vocabulary development, comprehension, levels of comprehension, and the preparation and use of reading and reaction guides.

Bell Fete Planned by Builders

KINGSTON

The Home Builders Association of the Hudson Valley will honor State Assemblyman H. Clark Bell, Woodstock, as "Legislator of the Year." It was announced today by Kenneth Russ, president. The tribute to Assemblyman Bell will be made at the regular May meeting of the Association to be held Tuesday, May 12, at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

For a number of years, the Home Builders Association has honored an area legislator and bestowed upon him the title of "Legislator of the Year." The factors taken into consideration are the legislator's voting record, his effectiveness in his legislative body, his study and understanding of legislation to be voted upon, his attention to the business of his legislative unit, and his willingness to meet with and discuss various items of legislation with groups of citizens.

Area legislators who have been similarly honored by the Home Builders in the past have included, State Senator Jay P. Rollison Jr. of Dutchess and Ulster Counties, State Senator D. Clinton Dominick II of Orange County and former Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson of Ulster County.

Assemblyman H. Clark Bell, who will receive a plaque at the May 12 meeting, represents the 99th State Assembly District embracing Ulster County. He was first elected to the State Assembly in 1968 and is a candidate for re-election this November. Assemblyman Bell was a delegate to the 1967 State Constitutional Convention from Dutchess and Ulster Counties.

Assemblyman Bell, who resides at Woodstock, is a lawyer with an office at Kingston. He is a graduate of Georgetown University, and the George Washington University Law School, Washington, D. C. Previous to his election in November, 1966, as a delegate to the State Constitutional Convention, Bell served as counsel to a number of state legislative committees.

Assemblyman Bell also will be the principal speaker at the May Home Builders meeting. He is expected to discuss in detail the mortgage bills which were passed in the recent session of the State Legislature.

"Mortgage financing and the availability of money for home construction is the greatest single problem facing the home building industry today," Russ stated. "We are pleased to honor Assemblyman Bell because of his interest in our problems," Russ continued, "and his efforts in the State Legislature on behalf of all home builders. I think we are indeed fortunate in having him as the speaker at our May meeting."

Sam Hankin, former president of the H.B.A. of the Hudson Valley and a director of the New York State Builders Association, will also make a report on a recent 200 million dollar fund established in New York State to provide mortgage money for the construction of new homes. Hankin recently attended a meeting in New York City at which time members of the New York Builders Association and the Savings Bank Association of New York State worked out the details of administering the fund. Hankin will give details as to how members of the Hudson Valley Association may process mortgage applications for construction monies from this special fund.

Tuesday's meeting, which is a dinner meeting, is scheduled to commence at 7 p.m. Due to the widespread interest among builders and realtors in the availability of monies for home construction, the meeting will be open not only to members of the Home Builders Association but also to the public.

County Commissioner of Jurors Explains the American System

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON
A panel of 23 new grand jurors are expected to be drawn in Ulster County next week. An inquiring body which investigates crime in Ulster County, its members are drawn from all walks of life and from all areas of the county. It has the power to hand up indictments—accusations that a person has committed some act against the People. How do today's grand juries differ from the first court held in Kingston more than 190 years ago under the first state constitution? "Very little," says Commissioner of Jurors John L. Smith, who estimates that history records that the grand jury was composed of 22 of the "most respectable men in the County of Ulster." Although there have always been and still are those in our land who would have the power of the grand juries curtailed and even abolished, its very democratic nature and essence has withstood the onslaughts and assaults until today it stands, with little change, from what it was in 1777," he continued. Who then are today's grand jurors, how are they chosen? First of all no one is called for grand or trial jury duty unless they have made application and have been accepted to serve as a juror. Those applying do not necessarily have to be property owners or taxpayers in order to qualify.

The information and date supplied by a juror on their original application is confidential and may not be disclosed to anyone, other than the commissioner and county jury board, except on an order obtained from the Appellate Division of the State Supreme Court.

The names of prospective jurors are drawn by lot and in general, Commissioner Smith jurors receive notice to appear at least nine days prior to the term. The list is called by the clerk on the opening day of the court. The required number of grand jurors has been designated at not less than 16 but not more than 23. Usually about 35 to 50 names are drawn. The usual term of service for trial jurors is for that part of the month in which court is in session, which is usually 15 to 18 days. Grand jurors usually serve fewer days but the number is dependent upon the case load. Jurors are paid for their services at the conclusion of the term. Compensation at the present time is $7.50 a day. A foreman and acting foreman are appointed from the Grand Jurors by the court and the clerk swears them in. Grand Jurors are sworn as a body. The court then charges the grand jury and they retire to organize. Should the Grand Jury hand up an indictment, then the person accused is entitled to a trial by 12 trial jurors.

Speaking of the jury system in general, Commissioner Smith said "the bitter lessons of history have taught us that the first step toward the destruction of the democratic process is the elimination of the independent of the courts and the jury system. It is the business of every citizen to see that this system is continued by serving as jurors if at all possible when called upon to do so."

Family Economics Study: Interesting Revelations

ULSTER PARK
A study of family economics covering a sampling of 4,460 families in 43 states recently released by the Institute for Social Research at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor includes some interesting revelations. The study includes some families in Ulster County. Mrs. Walter S. Herring of Ulster Park is the local interviewer. The survey shows that those respondents participating spent slightly less money for cigarettes in 1969 than in the previous year, while expenditures for alcoholic beverages rose. Another surprising statistic was that respondents mostly observed that food costs scarcely went up at all, though they may have in the latter part of 1969. This will be determined in the next survey. As to future prospects, 57 per cent of those interviewed expect to be generally better off. Only nine per cent think that things will be worse for them. The rest believe that their lives will be about the same as the present. More than half of those interviewed said they thought life for the average person was improving; 28 per cent thought it is getting worse. The remainder are in between, some better, some worse.

Among the 4,460 families sampled the median income rose to $7,874. The previous panel of respondents reported a median income of $7,206. The study also noted that 71 per cent of the family heads are married; 7 per cent are single and 22 per cent are widowed, divorced or separated. Questions on education revealed that more than half of the heads of households are high school graduates; 27 per cent went to college and 12 per cent are college graduates. Almost all of them have children now in school and expect them to graduate from high school. In addition 58 per cent plan to have their children go to college. On jobs and commuting, the survey noted that the average head of a family works 2,077 hours per year. This averages to 40 hours per week for all 52 weeks, the equivalent of a full year without a vacation. Despite this heavy work schedule, three in 10 would have liked to work more hours if work could be found. Hours worked varied with farmers and self-employed business men in particular working about 700 to 800 more hours a year than average. In addition to the time spent actually working, the average family head spends more than four weeks per year—150 hours—getting to and from work. The annual cost of travel to work, including gasoline, depreciation on the car, bus or train fare, parking fees and other items, also varies. Expenditures range from $135 for people living within five miles to over $250 for those who live 15 to 30 miles from their place of employment. The section on working wives notes that half of the wives in the panel families work either full or part time. The largest number, about two in five, have clerical or sales jobs. One in five are professionals and another one in five are operators or semi-skilled workers. Most of the remainder have service jobs. In addition to the time spent on the job and travel time, a husband and wife or single head of the family spends about 30 hours per week working around the house. Although this indicates busy people, only four per cent of the respondents said they have no spare time for recreation.

Special

Persons must be at least 21 years of age but not over 72; they must have been a resident of Ulster County for six months or more, must be a citizen of the United States and must not have previously been convicted of a felony. Willful disobedience of a jury summons is a criminal contempt of court and is punishable by a fine of $250 or imprisonment not exceeding 30 days or both. Smith explained. Jury service is not transferable either, meaning for example, a wife or relative may not serve for a man drawn during a particular term even though the others may be qualified as jurors. If however, for any reason a juror cannot serve during the month for which he or she is called, a trial juror may make application for deferment to a later month. However, a grand juror cannot be deferred. Jurors are permitted to state the months (except July and August) when they find it most convenient to serve and as far as possible the commissioner sees to it that they are called only during a month in which there is a willingness to serve. Doubt Court Impact

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — Republican governors, gathering here for their spring conference, generally discount the 1970 campaign impact of the Senate rejection of President Nixon's two Deep South nominees to the Supreme Court.

An obvious exception to that forecast is Florida, where G. Harold Carswell, one of the rejected Nixon choices, is running for the Senate with the active support of Gov. Claude R. Kirk Jr.

Another of the party's southern governors, Linwood Holton of Virginia, said he did not expect the court dispute would be of particular significance in his state's campaign.

So did Ronald Reagan of California and Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, seeking reelection in the nation's two big states.

That view reflected the consensus in an Associated Press survey of GOP governors. They were asked about the court controversy at their home capitals, in advance of the meeting of Republican state executives.

A dwindling band of governors, most of them from smaller states, was assembling here today. Only 16, half the roster of GOP governors, were expected, and there could be more last-minute cancellations.

Many governors apparently bypassed the conference because of trouble on college campuses at home.

Gov. David F. Cargo, the host, ordered the University of New Mexico closed Wednesday.

The campus disturbances and the U.S. move into Cambodia were certain to be prime political topics among the governors, particularly when national GOP leaders brief them Friday on the campaign outlook.

Cargo, who is running for the Senate, was one of the few governors who said the court controversy remains an issue. But he said that was the case in "relatively small and select areas."

WASHINGTON (AP) — National Guardsmen called out to control protests at four major universities across the country after the Kent State shootings have been given orders to keep their guns unloaded.

Troops sent into the University of Kentucky to enforce a night-long curfew were issued live ammunition Wednesday on orders from Gov. Louie B. Nunn, but the Guardsmen were told not to load their rifles.

Ammunition was kept from Guardsmen at the University of Wisconsin, where students built barricades in the streets and set them ablaze before being routed by tear gas Wednesday night.

Only in Ohio were Guardsmen still carrying loaded rifles, but new warnings were issued against opening fire in the wake of the earlier deaths.

Four students were killed and 10 wounded Monday when Ohio National Guardsmen shot into a crowd of antiwar demonstrators at Kent State. What touched off the gunfire remains unclear, enmeshed in controversy and confusion.

Illinois put 5,000 Guardsmen on standby alert and sent part of the force onto the Southern Illinois University campus after a clash Wednesday night. But the militia's top general said the troops had standing orders not to load or fire without a specific command from a senior officer.

Guard guns were also kept unloaded at the University of Maryland, where the last troops were withdrawn Wednesday after five days of demonstrations.

The Pentagon's riot regulations say troops are allowed to load their weapons only upon an officer's orders or if their lives are in danger.

Brig. Gen. Robert Canterbury has said his Ohio Guardsmen, under state control at the time of the shootings, carry live ammunition when assigned to riot duty and routinely load their weapons when sent into action.

At Kent State, where troops gradually are being pulled out, and at Ohio State University, closed after unrest Wednesday, soldiers were still carrying loaded rifles, according to the Guard headquarters.

But a spokesman said commanders had issued troops new precautions not to fire unless ordered or unless fired upon first.

Gov. Nunn warned that troops sent into the University of Kentucky after a campus fire would be armed "with mounted bayonets and live ammunition."

He said they would use necessary force to protect property.

But state Adj. Gen. Larry C. Dawson said the Kentucky Guardsmen were ordered not to load their weapons.

In Illinois, Adj. Gen. Harold R. Patton said guns would be kept unloaded unless troops were given a direct command by an officer. He added, "The Guardsmen will not fire into crowds. These are standing orders."

The Guard patrolled the SIU campus at Carbondale, Ill., after nine students and 12 policemen were injured in a clash. The troops were kept in an armory off campus during the actual fighting.

At Madison, Wis., Guardsmen and police were pelted with rocks as they moved in on burning barricades built in the streets. Clouds of tear gas scattered the students.

The Wisconsin Guard refused official comment. But a source said absolutely no bullets were issued to Guardsmen used on the campus.

One Guardsman sent into previous Wisconsin disturbances said ammunition never has been carried by the troops, but has been kept nearby if needed.

Foresees 30-Year Supply Of Food by Technology

PASADENA Calif. (AP) — A massive injection of technology can keep the world fed over the next 30 years despite booming population, an eminent scientist says.

"The natural resources available to present technology are sufficient to allow a vast improvement in the standard of living of all the people who will inhabit the earth 20 to 30 years from now," said Dr. Robert Revelle, director of the Harvard Center for Population Studies.

Speaking at the opening of a three-day conference on technological change and population growth Wednesday at California Institute of Technology, Revelle asserted that birth control—although necessary—cannot be a substitute for economic development.

Some at the conference disagreed with Revelle.

"We cannot use the same technological bludgeon on the underdeveloped countries that we have used on our own, seriously deteriorating our environment," said John P. Holdren of Stanford University.

"There is no such thing as a free lunch," Holdren said. "It is paid for by someone."

Revelle said a "green revolution" is under way in some underdeveloped countries to feed the hungry with high-yield varieties of wheat, rice and cereals.

"If it is to continue," he said, "large expenditures for development of irrigation water, transportation, storage, food processing, and fertilizers must be made."

Speaking to newsmen before the conference, Revelle said the United States should:

—Provide more aid to the underdeveloped countries.

—Encourage birth control.

—Try to tell the other rich countries how serious the problem really is so they will not turn their backs on the rest of the world.

Orange Blossoms and Rice for Radiant Brides

MRS. TERRY G. WALKER

MRS. HAROLD J. MANN JR. (Lakeside Studio)

Miss Marja Christina Hart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter C. Hart of 31 Oriole Drive, Woodstock, exchanged nuptial vows with Terry George Walker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley W. Walker of Mar-Cott Road, Kingston, Saturday, April 25 at Immanuel Lutheran Church, Kingston.

The Rev. Edward Westcott of Redford Lutheran Church, Detroit, Mich., and the Rev. Gary Mehl of Immanuel Lutheran Church, Kingston, officiated at the double ring ceremony. Charles Brand, organist, accompanied Mrs. Doris Blatter who sang traditional wedding selections. Baskets of white gladioli, chrysanthemums and daisies decorated the altar during the candlelight service and white bows marked the family pews.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected a gown of reared and scalloped acetate nylon cha-tillace in the empire line, styled with a softly pleated A-line acetate peau skirt. The gown was fashioned with full lace bishop sleeves, a scalloped cowl collar and featured a removable lace chapel train. Her three-tier, shoulder-length, silk illusion veil was attached to a Juliet cap of Alencon lace with pearl trim. She carried a bouquet of white gladioli.

Jeannette Hart of Kingston was maid of honor for her sister in a floor-length A-line gown of lavender floral chiffon with bishop sleeves and a cowl neckline. A picture hat of matching lavender and flowers complemented the gown and she carried a bouquet of lavender gladioli.

Bridesmaids were Miss Sandra Suprunuk, Wyandotte, Mich., and Miss Janis Walker, sister of the bridegroom, Marletown. Miss Karen Hart, sister of the bride, served as junior bridesmaid. Their lavender gowns were fashioned identically to that of the honor attendant's and they carried bouquets of light lavender gladioli.

The Rev. Burns officiated at the double ring ceremony. Arrangements of white gladioli decorated the altar.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected a silk taffeta empire gown styled with a high neckline and featuring bouffant sleeves of lace cuffed at the wrists. Her silk illusion veil was secured to a stylized lace headpiece of seed pearls and crystals, and she carried a nosegay bouquet of yellow roses.

Frank Marcusk of Gillette, Pa. was best man.

A reception was held at the home of the bride.

30 Sisterhoods Sending Delegates to Kingston

The New York State Branch of the National Women's League of the United Synagogue of America will hold its annual spring conference in Kingston on May 17, 18, and 19. National Women's League is a national body of sisterhoods affiliated with Conservative Congregations. The emphasis of the three-day conference will be on youth and Israel. Women are expected to attend the conference from more than 30 New York State sisterhoods, as far west as Buffalo and as far south as New Paltz.

Sisterhood Ahavath Israel of Kingston, which will host the conference, has selected the theme "Israel and the Torah Are One." Seaver Is Tops Say the Dodgers

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

And now the envelope please for this year's Cy Young Award winner.

Would you believe Tom Seaver again? He has the vote of Los Angeles Manager Walt Alston and probably some of his players.

Seaver is tops with no questions. Alston said after the New York Mets' Cy Young winner of 1969 beat his Dodgers 5-4 Wednesday night in cold, blustery Shea Stadium.

Although Seaver needed ninth-inning relief help, he picked up his sixth victory this season and 16th in succession over two years in regular season play.

"He's tough out there in any weather," said Alston. "But we battled him. Our kids sure as heck fought back."

Hank Aaron crashed his 11th homer and Phil Niekro pitched a five-hitter as Atlanta beat Pittsburgh 3-0 for its ninth straight and Philadelphia rallied to edge San Diego 4-3 in the night's only other games. Snow halted San Francisco at Montreal.

Reliever Ron Taylor said he felt he "was in for a night off" with Seaver going against the hitting poor Dodgers. Seaver has lost only once to them in his career.

Leading 5-1, Seaver opened the ninth with his eighth strikeout. But then he came unglued with a walk to Wes Parker, a single by Bill Sudakis and a three-run homer by Willie Crawford.

An infield single by Billy Grabarkewitz and a bloop hit to right by Ted Sizemore followed and Seaver gave way to Taylor. He got the last two outs.

The victory was Seaver's seventh straight over the Dodgers and his ninth in 10 lifetime decisions.

Aaron's two-run homer, 565th of his career, sent the Braves to a 2-0 lead in the opening inning and that was all Niekro needed to record his third victory in seven decisions.

Rico Carty extended his hitting streak to 25 games with a sixth-inning double that drove in Aaron with the Braves' other run. Aaron was on base with a single, his 2,988th lifetime hit.

Niekro: "I threw only seven or eight fast balls, the rest were knucklers."

"I got ahead of most of the hitters and when I got behind, I could still get it over when I had to," said Niekro, who threw 126 pitches. "Yes, it's the best I've pitched this year."

It was Niekro's second shutout over the Pirates this year. He held them hitless for 6.23 innings last April 18 at Pittsburgh and wound up with a two-hitter.

Deron Johnson tied the score with an eighth-inning homer and Philadelphia pushed across the winning run on Ron Herbel's bases-loaded wild pitch to beat San Diego.

After Johnson's seventh homer of the season tied the score against Padres' starter Clary Kirby, Don Money walked and Herbel came in to pitch.

Larry Hise singled Money to third and Larry Bowa walked, filling the bases. Herbel then retired Del Bates for the second out, but uncorked a wild pitch with Jim Hutto at bat.

Glotzbach Draws the Pole Position for 'Rebel 400'

DARLINGTON, S. C. (UPI)—

Charlie Glotzbach, always in the money but never a winner on a major track this year, will be in the pole position Saturday for the 14th running of the Rebel 400 at the Darlington Raceway.

Glotzbach, from Georgetown, Ind., pushed his purple 1970 Dodge around the mile and three-eighths track at 153.822 m.p.h. Wednesday to capture the coveted position.

Qualifying continues today for the 13th through 24th positions. Glotzbach, who won $300 along with the pole position, shattered the old track record of 152.293 m.p.h. set by area favorite Cale Yarborough in last year's Southern 500.

Two other drivers also broke the track record.

Bobby Allison of Hueytown, Ala., was clocked at 153.526

WOODSTOCK

If there is a better high school golf team than Oontea Central High in Ulster County, they're going to have to prove it.

The OCS Indians' thumping 9 1/2-2 1/2 victory over powerful Kingston High here was solid evidence that Coach Rick Barthel has a real powerhouse at the Boiceville school.

In their first meeting on the Twalfskill links, Oontea battled Coach Floyd McCormick's Maroons to a 6-6 standoff, largely because two Oontea golfers missed crucial short putts on the 9th green.

It was a little different here today on a wind-swept, chilled course. John Buoy, master, who may just be the Dean of Oontea and Marl No. 1 high school golfer in the county, toured the lush Woodstock layout in 2-over-par 37.

The tall, handsome sweet swing-lad opened with seven successive pars against Joe Bostic, the No. 1 Kingston player, to build up a commanding lead before running into bogies on the last two holes. Bostic, who was off form, had to settle for 41.

Vlad Hoyt, who has moved into the No. 2 spot at Oontea, topped Doug Tatar, 43-45 for a 2-1 win. Howie Gordon's 39 enabled him to post a 3-0 win over Bill Chappell, who had 43 in the No. 4 match. Scott, said Coach Rick Barthel, a former Ulster County Amateur champion. "We rate Kingston our toughest opponent and I am really pleased with the way we performed against them in two matches."

KINGSTON

Ulster County Community College golfers turned in a creditable 338 aggregate, despite high winds and frigid temperatures, to trounce the visiting freshmen from New Paltz State College, 338-382.

Ed Bardua was medalist for the day with a 39-41-80 over the challenging par-72, 6,759-yard Wiltwyck Country Club layout.

Coach Mike Perry's UCCC swimmers are now 7 and 2 on the season and were scheduled to face some serious competition in a triangular meet with Orange County and Nassau County today at the local links.

Orange CCC is rated by many, including Coach Perry, 43-42 for 85 and John Francesc as the best golf team in Region XV. They are undefeated to date and its players have consistently broken 80 this season.

Ulster, of course, is the defending Region XV champion, having won the title last year at Kutscher's Country Club.

Bardua's 80, no mean accomplishment under the conditions, was highlighted by two birdies, one on the 395-yard fourth hole and the other on the par-five, 478-yard 17th. A double-bogey "6" on the par-four 18th knocked him out of the 70 class.

Kevin Capalbo was next at 45-39-84, while Dan Powell hit

Ellenville Now 2-0

KINGSTON Ellenville High blanked Fallsburg Central, 2-0, for its second straight DUSO Village League baseball win. Art Kinberg and reliever, Tom Mansell, limited the Comets to three hits.

The Ellies did all of their damage against Bob Hobby with a four-run outburst in the third inning.

With one out in the frame, Mansell walked, stole second and scored on a single by Al Abel. Terry Sheeley doubled Abel home and after another out, Ed Younger singled Sheeley home, stole second and scored on Bob Pensa's single. Kinberg got credit for the win. Grey and Abel each had two hits for the winners.

Liberty edged Monticello, 4-3, in another league game.

Wilt Overcoming Loser's Image

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI)—Wilt Chamberlain, who had the reputation of being a loser when Bill Russell was around, may be on the verge of changing his image.

The man who missed all but 12 regular season games with a severe knee injury Wednesday night muscled the Los Angeles Lakers into a National Basketball Association's last game of the 1969-70 season.

With Willis Reed on the bench with a hip injury, the powerful Chamberlain bulldozed his way for 47 points and 27 rebounds in a 13-13 romp over the New York Knicks.

That knotted the Lakers and Knicks at three victories apiece in the best-of-seven game playoff finals with the championship decider set at New York's Madison Square Garden Friday night.

The finale will be carried on national television.

Chamberlain, who scored 56 points in a playoff game for Philadelphia in 1962, had a simple explanation for his performance.

"I got the ball more so naturally I scored more," he said with a shrug.

While there were smiles and laughter in the Laker dressing room, there were nothing but worried expressions on the New York side of the Forum.

"If Reed can't play Friday night, I'm going to the movies," Knick coach Red Holzman muttered.

All the Knicks claimed they didn't know Reed's status. "It's a 50-50 chance," Holzman said. "Before the game tonight, the doctors told me he couldn't be of any use to us and if he played he would hurt himself. Naturally, we didn't want to take the risk."

Reed, the NBA's most valuable player who was hurt in the first half at New York Monday night, said his injured right hip was still sore.

"But some of the soreness has gone away," he said optimistically. "I won't know if I'll play until Friday. I won't run until then."

The Knicks were never in Wednesday night's game. Holzman had Nate Bowman in Reed's starting center slot but he replaced him with Bill Hosket after the Lakers zipped to a 15-8 lead in the first 5 1/2 minutes.

Los Angeles was in front 36-16 at the end of the first quarter and led 71-51 at halftime. The closest New York could come in the second half was 13 points in the final quarter.

Chamberlain, who was 20 of 27 from the floor, was sympathetic with Reed.

"By all rights we should be celebrating a championship right now," the 7-foot-1, 275-pounder said, referring to the Knicks' sensational come-from-behind win Monday night despite the absence of Reed. "I know how Reed feels."

Jerry West scored 33 points and had 13 assists while rookie Dick Garrett, who hit his first seven shots in the opening quarter, contributed 18 for the Lakers.

Dave DeBusschere, who also had a hand in trying to guard Chamberlain, led the Knicks with 25. Knick reserve Cazzie Russell pumped in 23 and Bowman made 18.

While New York is a young team with a bright future, the aging Lakers feel Friday night could be their last chance. Chamberlain is 33 and West is 31.

Elgin Baylor, the oldest Laker at 35, summed up Los Angeles seventh try for the title in 10 years.

"If we play the type of ball we are capable of we will lick them even if Reed plays."

single. Pat Harder then hit a ground ball that went for an error and Elgo scored. The losers tallied again in the fourth as Harder walked and went to second on a fielder's choice. He then scored on a single by John Geuss.

Kingston closed the issue early with five runs in the bottom of the first. Watzka singled and Brady followed with a walk. Don Lackaye loaded the sacks as he beat out an infield single. George Geanuleas then unloaded a single to score Watzka and Brady. Catcher Larry Crantz followed with a single as Lackaye and Geanuleas dented the dish. Crantz

Wallkill Nine Wins by 10-2

WALLKILL High School handed New Paltz its fourth loss in Ulster County Athletic League competition with a 10-2 rout yesterday at the winners' field.

Walks and errors proved to be the downfall of the defending champs as the winners managed just five hits.

Mike Coy was the winning pitcher, although he gave up seven hits, including two doubles by Rick Pesavento and run-producing singles by Bill Schiller and losing pitcher Rich McCord in the top of the fifth inning.

The visitors committed seven errors and McCord issued 10 free passes as New Paltz pennant hopes became even dimmer.

Dear Abby

Don't Meddle, Mom

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune, N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Our son, a very handsome and charming young man left a lovely wife and three small children for another woman. He took this woman away from her husband, a very fine (and wealthy) man who is now, considered one of the most eligible bachelors in Texas.

Even tho we love our son, we feel some guilt about having raised him to be a very spoiled and selfish person. He is also no good, as now he has been seeing other girls every chance he gets.

We wonder if we shouldn't tell his second wife that our son will probably leave her for another woman, and perhaps it's not too late for her to try to get her "ex" back. They had a wonderful marriage before our son came on the scene and broke it up. Please advise.

TEXAS MOM
DEAR MOM: When a woman leaves a "fine" husband for a man who has left "a lovely wife and three small children," she knows what kind of husband she's getting. Don't meddle, Mom.

DEAR ABBY: Is it possible to love a man and hate him at the same time? I think so. You see, Abby, my husband is really two different people.

He never goes out without me. He is very affectionate, and I couldn't ask for a better father for my children. He always compliments me on my looks and my cooking, and he never forgets to say "I love you" at the right times.

So what's my problem? He hits me. He expects me to do whatever he says without asking any questions, and if I W. Va., quit using "telepathy," ask, he hits me. Then he says the next time I will obey him without asking any questions. After he's thru beating on me, he kisses me and says, "Now, let's forget it."

Abby, I can't forget it. I love him. Please help me. Thanks for listening. I feel better already.

HEART (AND NOSE) BROKEN
DEAR BROKEN: His instant mood changes and irrational behavior could be a symptom of an emotional disturbance. If you love him, you will insist that he get professional help. Otherwise, prepare to have your bridgework rearranged periodically.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are the parents of an only child, and we are a very happy family. For years we have been annoyed by people who ask us why we have only one child. Then they proceed to tell us how "unfair it is to raise a child alone, blah, blah, blah." We hardly even know some of these people. Are they too stupid to realize that there is usually a good reason why a couple has only one child? Ours happens to be a personal one which we don't care to share with the world.

It is cruel for anyone to say to an only child who is too young to understand, "Tell Mommy and Daddy to get you a baby brother or sister."

I know that your column is widely read, so please tell these so-called, well-minded people to keep their advice to themselves and to keep their big mouths shut!

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

"EVESDROPPER": (Q.) We have an extension phone. When I get on one of the phones, my father gets on the other and listens. Sometimes he even says something. That's embarrassing, particularly if I'm talking to a boy. I can't have a private phone.

What can I do to have private phone conversations?—Listened to in Maryland.

(A.) If you are telling me the whole story, your father is violating two rules every parent needs to know about:

(1) It's rude to listen in on any conversation to which you are not a party. This includes your children's phone calls.

(2) A parent who has trained a daughter correctly should trust her when she gets to be a teen-ager.

Talk to your father about these rules and ask him if you two can't adopt them. Promise him you will be worthy of his trust.

LITTLE WAR: (Q.) My parents must want me to be unhappy. My hair is short but a piece of it hangs over one eye. My father says it bugs him. He says he's going to cut it off while I'm sleeping.

My mother won't let me make up my eyes. My father won't let me wear nylons under my knee socks to keep my legs warm. It gets cold in the morning here! Most of the girls wear pants to school, but do you think I can? No!

I think you will tell me to talk to them. They call it sassing. I'm 13, almost 14.—Help Needed Fast in Northern California.

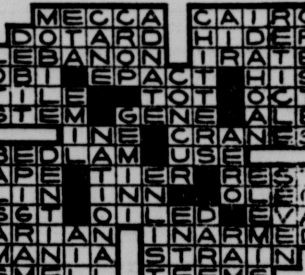

(A.) Your parents are blowing up small matters into big ones. And you're talking when you should be listening. All three of you should try to act more like adults. If you don't, you'll really have some hangups in a couple of years when the major problems start arising. Show this to your parents.

(Want personal answers to your questions? Write to Jean Adams, Box 2402, Houston, Texas 77001. Only letters that include a stamped, self-addressed envelope will be answered.)

Virginians--Old and New

NEW YORK (AP) — "The Virginian," after eight seasons on NBC and with a backlog of 200 or more episodes, is in a better position to entertain warm weather TV audiences than younger shows.

Some of the first programs of the 90-minute series are being rerun. It may not be much fun to sit through a second broadcast of an uninspired show first seen a few months ago, but it is interesting to compare the old "Virginians" with this season's. Last week there was an episode in which Bette Davis was having a fine time playing the heavy—a spinster bank teller involved in blackmail and thievery. This Wednesday night Lee Marvin developed a very distinctive bad guy—cool, cruel and urbane. When the episode was shot, Marvin was a featured player with star status still being his grasp.

James Drury, in the title role, was leaner and infinitely less sure of himself than he is today. Doug McClure, however, seems to have changed little, in looks or in his series character. Neither, frankly, have the stories.

Radical change will come to the range next season. Many of this year's regulars will depart, the name will be changed to "The Men from Shiloh," and Stewart Granger and Lee Majors will be added as alternating guest stars. So much change is planned, in fact, that the film studio turning out the program is exploiting it as a new series.

Change is contemplated in many other quarters as Hollywood moves into production of next season's shows. Walter Brennan, who apparently can't stand inactivity for long, will join John Forsythe's "To Rome, With Love," which seems to have lost Kay Medford. Leslie Nielsen lost his job as top cop star.

After 17 years, on radio and then television, "College Bowl" appears to be headed into retirement in mid-June. It has lost the sponsor associated with the quiz program since its beginnings. NBC said that unless a new sponsor turns up the show will be off its Sunday schedule next season. John Cleary, owner and producer of the property, still hopes it can be salvaged.

Ban on GIs in Cambodia Loses in House

WASHINGTON (AP) — Efforts to prohibit U.S. troops in Cambodia have been defeated in a dramatic House session punctuated by angry outbursts on the floor and cheers and hisses from the galleries.

Even an amendment President Nixon said endorsed his decision to send U.S. troops into Cambodia—and opponents said would give him open-end authority to wage war—went down to resounding defeat.

In parliamentary sleight of hand designed to prevent a flat ban against U.S. troops in Cambodia from coming to a vote, the House approved the amendment by Rep. Paul Findley, R-Ill., 171 to 144—then immediately killed it 221 to 32.

"I'm not for one of these amendments, not one," House Armed Services Chairman L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., said in urging no House action on Cambodia. "I'd take the Findley amendment as a last resort."

"The President of the United States is doing exactly right with or without this Findley amendment," Rivers said. "President Nixon is saving American boys and you are committed to the same objective—it's as simple as that."

Then drawing loud hisses from the antiwar-dominated spectators in the packed galleries, Rivers added: "I want to talk about something we haven't heard much about here—patriotism."

The angry outbursts from the floor came when the House voted to limit all debate on the Cambodia amendments to a period that gave each speaker 45 seconds to state his case.

Rep. Donald W. Reagle Jr.,

R-Mich., grabbed a microphone, wheeled around to face the galleries and demanded: "Have you ever seen a sadder sight in your life?"

Spectators cheered and they and Reagle were gavelled to order by the chair.

The anger in the House reflected the tide of dissent and disorder sweeping many of the nation's college campuses over Nixon's decision to send U.S. troops into Cambodia.

Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr., meanwhile, in a joint resolution today called for reaffirming the constitutional responsibility of Congress to consult with the President "on all matters affecting grave national decisions of war and peace."

If adopted, it would declare it to be national policy that American troop withdrawals from South Vietnam would continue, that the country would avoid enlarging the present conflict into neighboring states and that Congress reaffirm its constitutional responsibilities of consultation with the President on matters affecting grave national decisions.

"The adoption of this resolution is another avenue of assertion that Congress is willing to reassume its responsibilities for sharing the heavy burden of making grave far-reaching decisions that affect our role in the world particularly in questions of war and peace," he concluded.

The antiwar strikes, marches and sit-ins, which multiplied rapidly after the killing of four Kent State University students Monday, continued to mushroom Wednesday.

Gov. Louie B. Nunn of Kentucky ordered state police and National Guardsmen "with mounted bayonets and live ammunition" onto the University of Kentucky campus to enforce a curfew in the wake of an antiwar protest.

Gov. James A. Rhodes of Ohio called for the immediate shutdown of all universities experiencing unrest in his state.

In the nation's capital, plans by the New Mobil—the New Mobilization Committee to end the War in Vietnam—to stage a mass demonstration at the White House Saturday ran into Justice Department resistance.

The government turned down the request to hold the protest in front of the White House but the New Mobil said it would be held there anyway.

Mayor Walter Washington said an alternative site was being made available on the Washington Monument grounds, but New Mobil project director Ron Young said the students will rally as close to the executive mansion as they can get.

Debate on the Kent State slayings spilled over for a second straight day in Congress. Senate leaders of both parties—Democrat Mike Mansfield and Republican Hugh Scott—joined in asking for a presidential commission to investigate the incident. Six Kent State students met with Nixon for nearly an hour. They said later they urged the President to name a commission to probe the slayings and also to listen to students more.

The admonition to listen to what the nation's youth are saying also came in a private letter to President Nixon from Secretary of the Interior Walter J. Hickel. The secretary expressed fear that some administration policies appear "to lack concern for the attitude of a great mass of Americans—our young people."

In Baltimore Wednesday night, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said he will fight to bar funds for continued U.S. military action in Southeast Asia. He coupled the pledge with a plea for an end to violent campus dissent.

But House action on the Findley resolution gave no clear indication of how Nixon's decision stacks up in Congress.

The proposals to prohibit introduction of U.S. ground combat troops in Cambodia, Laos or Thailand were in three amendments proposed to a $20.24 billion weapons procurement authorization bill.

Findley's amendment added the exception that such troops nam-could be used to the extent the President determined necessary to protect the lives of U.S. troops remaining in South Viet-

VAGUE WARNINGS—Nguyen Tanh Lee (L), spokesman for the Hanoi delegation, and Pham Dang Lam, Saigon's chief negotiator, hold respective news conference after North Vietnam and the Viet Cong staged a temporary protest boycott of the Paris peace talks Wednesday, and both sides exchanged vague warnings that the negotiations might be doomed. Lam told a news conference his delegation "is studying the Communist proposal to meet again May 14, and its (Saigon's) decision will depend upon the attitude of the other side." (UPI CABLEPHOTO)

Aim of the North Raids-- Time for Serious Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — A major aim of the big U.S. air raids on North Vietnam was to help drive home the Nixon administration message to Hanoi that the time has come for real peace talks.

This is acknowledged privately by some officials, although the publicly stated reason for the air attacks on four key areas along the North Vietnamese-Lao border was to protect unarmed reconnaissance planes from antiaircraft fire.

White House sources last week indicated the U.S.-South Vietnamese troop drive against the Cambodian sanctuaries also had the purpose of sending a tough message to Hanoi that the United States was finished making one-sided concessions after nearly two years of fruitless meetings in Paris.

Therefore, the air raids against North Vietnam last weekend emerge in perspective as part of a diplomatic-military play.

The message-sending aspect of the "protective reaction" strikes against antiaircraft gun and missile positions was made clear Wednesday by Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird.

He said "the raids were carried on to make sure that the North Vietnamese understood that we intended to use air power should the reconnaissance planes be fired upon...flying over North Vietnam."

Although the "reinforced protective reaction" strikes by as many as 100 planes in a single operation did have an intent to safeguard the lives of U.S. reconnaissance pilots, Pentagon sources made it plain they also had the broader purpose of jolting the North Vietnamese toward meaningful negotiations.

Pilots engaged in the strikes reportedly were given some latitude, probably more than had been the case in the past, on what they could hit.

For example, if an ammunition supply point was reasonably close to an antiaircraft battery or missile site, the pilot could consider it as part of the target complex.

Intelligence information indicates the actual threat to U.S. reconnaissance and other aircraft, especially in the approaches to strategic passes into Laos, has increased, sources said.

There has been a marked thickening of surface to air missile defenses, now numbering an estimated 30 active firing positions below the 19th parallel, they said.

It was learned that some of these surface-to-air missiles are in position to fire into neighboring Laotian air space and thus endanger American planes flying over that part of Laos.

Intelligence experts said the North Vietnamese have shifted to larger caliber antiaircraft guns within the past year and have improved their already effective camouflage.

The North Vietnamese currently are reported to have more than 2,100 antiaircraft guns, many of them radar controlled, with about 1,200 in the panhandle area leading toward the Ho Chi Minh trail.
